NATS WIN 6-3, OVER YANKS AS MACKMEN BOW

Victory Reduces Lead of Philadelphia to 6½ Games.

5-RUN RALLY IN 6TH DEFEATS NEW YORK

Pipgras Contributes to Own Loss With Errors on Two Bunts.

YANKEES' SLUGGERS HALTED BY CROWDER

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

If the Nationals had had no other teams but the Yankees to meet this season, the 1930 race would have ended early enough to be classed now as a historical fact. Yesterday they downed the New York Yankees again, for the thirteenth time in sixteen starts, winning 6 to 3, to increase their second-place margin four and one-half games. As the Red Sox scored a surprise 2-1 victory over the Mackmen, the Johnsons pulled up to within six and one-half games of the league leaders.

Had George Pipgras been able to field as well as he pitched, the Yankees might have given the Nationals a battle, but he came through with two errors in the sixth frame, one being a two-base misplay which let two Washington runners score, and the Nats followed these with some timely hitting to pack the game on ice. Until this round the two had fought to a 1-all draw, the sixth netting five juicy runs and victory.

Crowder Goes Route.

"General" Alvin Crowder went the route for the Nationals and was generally effective. He granted nine hits, the same number which his mates garnered from the combined offerings of Pipgras, Ken Holloway and Lou McEvoy, but kept them well enough scattered to preserve most of the lead which the other Nats gave him. Two of the alien runs came in the eighth, but Crowder showed that this was merely a happen-so by suddenly clamping on the brakes.

Ossie Bluege led the Nationals with the willow, getting two doubles, one of which scored two runs, and a single, with Joe Cronin running second with a two-bagger and a perfect bunt. Harry Rice, Lou Gehrig and Tony Lazzeri, with two safeties apiece, were high guns for the Yankees, with Babe Ruth having to be satisfied with one single.

Duel for 5 Frames.

For five frames it was quite a pitching duel, with each team scoring once and not even threatening in the other four frames. The Nats were the first to score, doing so in the opening canto after it looked as though they would go out in rapid order. Myer opened with a walk and Sam Rice immediately hit into a double-play. Manush singled to left-center, however, and Cronin doubled him home. New York's run came in the fifth, the result of one-basers by Chapman, H. Rice and Lazzeri.

In the home sixth the Nats came through with their winning rally. Sam Rice opened with a one-shot and Pipgras fumbled Manush's sacrifice, all hands being safe. Cronin then dropped a perfect bunt down the third-base line. Pipgras had no chance to throw him out at first, but tried anyway, his peg going to the stands back of Gehrig and caroming to right-field. Both runners scored and Cronin carried on all the way to third.

Bluege's Double Clears Bases.

Pipgras walked Judge, West singled Cronin home and, when Bluege cleared the bases with a double, Holl-

Rum Verdict Asked Of Supreme Court

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court was asked yesterday to rule on how far Federal prohibition agents lawfully can go in halting automobiles without a search warrant to look for illicit liquor.

Near Sturgis, Mich., last February, Edwin C. Kudy and Byron Langtry were stopped by two warrantless Federal agents. They were convicted of violating the prohibition law. They contend the search was illegal, but the lower Federal courts refused to take that view and declined to prohibit the use of the seized liquor as evidence.

Asserting the action was illegal, the two men insisted they were being deprived of their constitutional rights. The Federal Circuit Court of Appeals sustained the stopping of the automobile, and declared that the agents had received information which warranted their action, as was disclosed by sagging automobile springs and the 192 quarts of liquor found in the car.

Calvin Coolidge

Says: The allegations in the recent criticisms of one of the English naval reactionaries that the limitation leaves their navy in a distinctly second place, after being compared with the similar statements by some of our own reactionaries regarding the resulting inferiority of our Navy, may well be eliminated from further consideration.

The chief motive for the treaty was to prevent competition in building. The secondary considerations were the saving of expense and the extension of the policy of parity to all ships. Because the needs of the British were felt to differ from the needs of the United States as to types of ships and caliber of guns, parity could only be approximate. Experts differ about it. But the main object of preventing present competition was fully secured.

Further discussion of parity is not only vain but is almost an exhibition of an unfriendly attitude. Representatives of three great and peaceful naval powers have reached a temporary agreement mutually advantageous. It will be best for all concerned to adopt it and abide by it. No good purpose will be served by constant discussion of the relative strength of the different navies involved.

GIRL PAID GRAVELY GRAFT, JURY HEARS

Prisoner Swears She Gave $50 Several Times to Policeman.

ACQUITTED OF ASSAULT

After a Police Court jury before Judge Gus A. Schuldt yesterday had heard Elizabeth G. Campbell declare that Spottswood F. Gravely, former detective of the Third Precinct and now a private of the Second Precinct, had taken from her as much as $50 at a time for protection and yet had raided her three times, the veniremen found her not guilty on a charge of assault against the policeman, but found her guilty on a similar charge in connection with an alleged attack on Effa L. Cassatter, a policewoman.

With tears in her eyes the girl heard the verdict of the jury and shortly afterwards asked: "How can a girl make a living in this town that's full of grafting policemen?"

Gravely as complainant in one charge alleged that the woman assaulted him when he arrested her on July 21 last. The policewoman was the complainant on the other charge.

"When I lived on N street northwest near Twelfth street northwest—in an apartment—he repeatedly came to me for money," the girl told the jury. "Many's the time I gave him $50, but he always came back for more."

The girl declared that Gravely, although in the Third Precinct, raided her on numerous occasions when she lived in other precincts and that on the last occasion he trailed her and said he was merely trying to see if she was up to her "old tricks."

"I left Washington several months ago," the girl said, "and went to Florida. Gravely told me that if I ever returned and tried to 'outsmart' him he would get me even if he had to plant liquor in my automobile.

"On the day Gravely arrested me, July 21, I was riding in my automobile. I saw him, and he followed me. I went to my mother's home, where I live, and he intercepted me before I could get in the door. I may have hit him in the scuffle and if I did I'm only sorry I didn't hit him more."

Attack on Policewoman.

The attack on the policewoman, the girl said, was made while she was being held a prisoner at the House of Detention.

"I've paid all the money I've made to policemen," said the girl following her conviction, "and just now I haven't a cent, but, believe me, I'll take my medicine and then I'm going to certain members of Congress and

ARMISTICE SAVES MOVIE STAGE SHOW

STRIKE MAY BE AVERTED

With a strike that threatened to close all local moving picture theaters averted for at least two weeks, as the result of an agreement made in New York yesterday, the Palace and Fox Theaters announced that stage shows would be booked for the new week as usual. The strike was scheduled for September 1, when stage hands and projection machine operators were due to walk out in sympathy with the musicians, who had been informed that contracts expiring on that date would not be renewed.

According to the agreement reached in New York yesterday the contracts will be continued, under a retroactive arrangement, for at least two weeks. Meanwhile negotiations will continue in New York.

A. Julian Brylawski, president of the Theater Owners Association, and A. C. Hayden, John Birdsell and Richard Ashby, representing the Musicians Protective Union, left for the metropolis late Wednesday night, following the virtual collapse of local conferences.

An offer to continue contracts for one week was rejected by the National Musicians Union, and in the face of what appeared to be a hopeless deadlock both factions agreed to take the dispute to New York headquarters.

Yesterday's meeting was held in the offices of the American Federation of Musicians, with representatives of Warner Bros., Loew's Theaters, Fox Theaters, Inc., and Radio-Keith-Orpheum present.

Thomas F. Gambel, representing the American Federation of Musicians, announced that the conference had attained its ends, inasmuch as it was called to determine what action Washington musicians would take after the expiration of the present contract.

Princess Killed in Car After Dirigible Flight

Ravensburg, Germany, Aug. 28 (A.P.). — Princess Marie Therese of Waldburg-Zeil, 61, was killed today in a tragic sequel to a flight of German nobility aboard the dirigible Graf Zeppelin yesterday and today.

The princess died in an automobile accident as she and other members of her family who had been aboard the airship were returning from Friedrichshafen to the ancestral castle in Wurttemburg. Her son, Count Constantin, lost control of the car, and it dashed down an embankment. He was unhurt.

MACHINE GUNS GUARD PRESIDENT'S PALACE

ARGENTINE LEADERS INVOLVED IN RUMORS

Extra Session of Congress Will Be Called to Quiet Administration Critics.

Buenos Aires, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—The Argentine capital was armed tonight for a possible revolution outbreak against the government of President Hipolito Irigoyen, for 40 years a powerful figure in his country's politics and twice its chief of state.

Warning that a revolution might break out immediately in part of the army was said today by the newspaper La Critica to have been given the president by Dr. Juan de la Campa, minister of justice. Dr. De la Campa said certain political leaders were involved.

The president was reported to have replied that he did not fear any revolutionary outbreak against the state, but believed an attack might be made against himself.

Machine Guns Ready.

After a night and a day of feverish political and police activity, all military units here were confined to barracks. The president's home and the presidential palace were heavily guarded.

Machine-gun crews were mounted on the roofs of surrounding buildings and a mounted police squadron augmented the regular palace guards. Soldiers and police were concentrated at strategic points.

Despite rumors of political upheavals and conspiracies the city itself was calm this evening. The tense atmosphere in political circles apparently found the populace resigned or indifferent.

Precautions in Strike.

The extraordinary police activity in the city since yesterday was officially explained as a precautionary measure against possible disorders from a strike of Union Telephone Co. employes, 6,000 of whom went out on a 24-hour strike.

The newspaper La Prensa today states that the roof of President Irigoyen's house bristles with machine guns, and that the provincial railway management has received orders to hold a train ready at a moment's notice to convey troops to Buenos Aires.

Trouble of a mysterious nature began to develop yesterday. The chief of provincial police held long conferences with the commanders of all of the city's police stations.

DRY HEADS SEE MORE MEN AND FUNDS AS NEED

U. S. Unable to Enforce Law Unaided, Says Youngquist.

STATES AND CITIES MUST HELP, IS VIEW

Woodcock Can Not Meet Hoover Slash Plea, He States.

BIGGER BUDGET HELD VITAL IN NEXT YEAR

Radio Talk and Interview Stress Task Faced by Government.

Satisfactory enforcement of prohibition can not be accomplished by the Federal Government alone nor can the Enforcement Bureau harmonize its views to those of President Hoover for a cut in expenditures.

These two views were aired respectively by Assistant Attorney General Youngquist in a radio address last night over the Columbia Broadcasting System, and by Prohibition Director Woodcock in a public utterance.

Mr. Woodcock not only can see no possibility of complying with the President's plea for departmental economies by decreased expenses, but he made quite clear his belief that all of the $15,000,000 made available for this fiscal year would be used. He went a step farther by predicting an increased budget for the next fiscal year.

Augmented Expense Figure.

He explained that he had an augmented expense figure in mind when he recently announced that he planned to request addition of 500 agents to the force of 1,750 men now in service.

He explained that when the enforcement unit recently was transferred from the Treasury to the Justice Department the appropriation originally made for it and the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol was divided into two parts. He said that separation of the two agencies tended to increase the total overhead expenses of both.

Mr. Youngquist charged that effective enforcement of prohibition by Federal agencies alone was an "utter impossibility," and added a strong appeal for increased cooperation by municipal and State authorities.

Force "Pitifully Inadequate."

He characterized as "pitifully inadequate" the estimated number of Federal agents as one to every 70,000 persons in the Nation, although he pointed out that, in his opinion, enforcement was "becoming more effective." He freely predicted improvements for the future. His appeal coincided with similar statements made recently by Attorney General Mitchell, Mr. Woodcock, and Chairman Wickersham of the Law Enforcement Commission.

Mr. Youngquist declared that every

RETURNS TO LECTURE UPON PROMPTNESS

FIRE ENGINES HALT SECOND OF SPEECHES

Tells Unseen Audience That England Deserves American Support.

The golden rule of punctuality was faithfully observed last night by Sir John Allesbrook Simon, distinguished British attorney, when he refused to countenance postponement of a radio address which he was scheduled to make at 9 o'clock over the Columbia Broadcasting System at a dinner given in his honor by the Federal Bar Association.

Postponement of the address for half an hour was requested by the committee in charge of the dinner because of the late hour at which the function started. The dinner was dlayed because of the tardy return of the visiting lawyers from Great Britain, France and Canada from a trip to Mount Vernon.

So late, in fact, were the guests and hosts in arriving at the Carlton Hotel, where the dinner took place, that Sir John and his wife, Lady Simon, were forced to wait for the diners to arrive. The distinguished guest and his wife were virtually the first to arrive at the hotel. Sir John proving himself to be both a devotee to the golden rule of punctuality and an expert at rapid dressing.

Sir John and Wife Wait.

Observing that 7:30 o'clock was the time set for the start of the dinner, and as it was 7:30 o'clock, Sir John and his wife repaired to the outdoor terrace of the hotel, where the tables had been arranged. A straggling party of early arrivals loitered in the lobby outside of the terrace, leaving Sir John and his wife faithfully waiting for the fruit cocktails.

Because of this unfortunate start Sir John was denied any real ovation, the guests taking their places as they arrived. When the time came for Sir John to make his scheduled radio address on "Some Aspects of the Indian Problem," the dinner had reached the entree stage.

The committee in charge of the dinner immediately went into a huddle and decided that Sir John's address should wait half an hour so as to eliminate the clatter of knives and forks. Upon being consulted on this point Sir John suggested that the matter be put up to the Columbia Broadcasting Co.

Worried Radio Man.

Practically on the heels of this suggestion William Doherty, of the Columbia system rushed into the hotel, looking for Sir John. Going straight for his man, Mr. Doherty made it plain that any delay in the radio would disrupt the entire program of the Columbia broadcasting system, adding that many thousands of dollars would be lost by any change being made in the program.

The dinner committee pleaded with Mr. Doherty to insert "some musical numbers" for half an hour. But the radio company representative insisted that the speaker face the microphone on schedule. Then Sir John smilingly concurred, observing that the rule of punctuality was a better one than procrastination.

THEATER IS HELD UP IN COURSE OF MOVIE

ESCAPE BY REAR DOOR

While "The Shadow of the Law" thrilled patrons in the packed Avalon Theater at 5812 Connecticut avenue northwest at 10:20 o'clock last night, two masked and armed robbers staged a daring holdup to rob the amusement house manager, S. Edward Bowman, of $265 as they bound and gagged him in his office bordering the orchestra seats.

Working speedily and effectively, the two robbers stole silently into the office a moment after Bowman had removed the entire day's receipts from the box office and had poured the money on his desk.

A trse command to "stick 'em up" followed. While one of the pair scooped up the money, his companion backed Bowman into a corner chair, trussed him quickly with small rope and gagged him, with the explanation that "it won't hurt you."

The men slipped out of the office as quietly as they had entered, and walked down a larkened aisle and through a rear door, which they slammed. Miss Blanche Levinson, of 33 H street northwest, organist, heard the door noise while she was seated in her office nearby, and a moment later heard the first outvry of Bowman, who had worked free from the gag and was extricating himself from the ropes.

Police responded hurriedly to a telephone call and made a wide search without success, while the film in the playhouse was reeled out to its end with the patrons oblivious to the more exciting drama unfolded a few feet from them.

MAYOR, FLIERS' HOST GETS SUIT SUMMONS

INVOLVED IN EWALD CASE

New York, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—In the midst of Mayor Walker's welcome to the German fliers today on City Hall steps, a process server stepped up and handed him a summons in a $250,000 slander suit brought by Jacob Cash, former city marshal.

Cash recently testified he paid Martin J. Healy, Tammany district leader, involved in the Ewald case, $2,000 in connection with his appointment as marshal. Cash alleged the mayor slandered him in a recent statement as to reasons for his removal from office.

"He picked out a nice moment to serve a fellow," the mayor said. "I think it was absolutely discourteous to break into the broadcast of the reception to the German fliers."

Later the mayor announced he would turn the records concerning Cash's dismissal over to District Attorney Crain. He said he was not charging Cash with a crime, and that he would let Mr. Crain determine what action, if any, should be taken.

The Ewald case, centering in charges that George F. Ewald bought his appointment as a magistrate, developed in several directions today.

Thomas T. Tommaney, reputed gobetween in carrying $10,000 from Mrs. Ewald to Healy just before her husband was appointed to the bench, was ordered in Federal Court to answer certain questions before a Federal grand jury.

Healy was indicted by a Federal grand jury for alleged failure to file an income tax return in 1927, the Society Women Deny Mother, Court Hears

New York Tribunal Asked to Compel Recognition of Parent, 72, by Daughters Charged With Refusing to Recognize Her.

New York, Aug. 28 (N.Y.W.N.S.)—A mother, 72, sent an extraordinary story to the Supreme Court today asking that two daughters, who married socially prominent men of New York, be forced to acknowledge her as their mother and not as "an impostor."

She is Mrs. Everett A. Archibald and the defendants are Mrs. Carolyn Archibald Harriss, of No. 14 Sutton Place South, and Mrs. Nathaniel Scudder Wyckoff Vanderhoef, the former Elizabeth Archibald.

In her petition Mrs. Archibald asked that her two daughters not be allowed to continue the pretense that they are the children of a "James Allen Archibald," and that they are orphans and she a stepmother.

"I want to get this cleared up before I die," her attorney, Francis B. Elgas, quoted her as saying.

"Your guess is as good as mine," said Mr. Elgas when asked by a reporter whether Mrs. Archibald believed she had been repudiated for social reasons.

Mrs. Archibald asks no damages, just that Mrs. Harriss and Mrs. Vanderhoef recognize her and her late husband, Everett A. Archibald, of Denver, as their father and mother and that the two women be enjoined from stating or publishing that she is not their true mother.

This is the story of Mrs. Archibald based on photostatic copies of birth certificates and marriage license applications of Mrs. Harriss and Mrs. Vanderhoef.

Everett Allen Archibald and Mrs. Archibald, both English Canadians, were married in Omaha March 11, 1884. They moved to Denver in 1899.

The present Mrs. Harriss, widow of the late cotton broker, Langdon Harriss, married Rox Cowley in 1913, divorced him in 1915 and then married Mr. Harriss here in 1916. According to the mother, Mrs. Harriss used Macon, Ga., as her birthplace instead of Omaha in her second marriage application and used the name of her maternal grandfather, James, as her father's name. She also used an incorrect middle name for her mother.

"She said to her husband," the old mother said today, "that my husband was not her father and at other times that I was an impostor. At other times she also made false statements about me."

The present Mrs. Vanderhoef, according to Mrs. Archibald, also used Macon, Ga., and not Omaha as her birthplace in her marriage application in 1926. She named "James Al-

Plane's Safety Landing Aid Has Ability to 'Hear' Light

Chicago, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—A new aid for airplane pilots seeking to land on a fog-bound airport, a device that "hears" light, was revealed today.

It is the invention of Earl C. Hanson, Chicago scientist, who disclosed the development to a group of aeronautic experts attending the national air races, including Maj. James Doolittle, noted for his blind-landing work last year for the Guggenheim Fund.

Mr. Hanson utilizes invisible magnetic waves emanating from a bank of Neon tubes, intercepting them with a device in the cockpit that causes a steady hum in earphones clapped to the pilot's ears and activates an electrical altimeter that shows the number of feet the plane is above the ground.

The Neon tubing, Mr. Hanson said, would be placed on a landing field to act as a visual signal in clear weather but giving out its invisible stream of electrons that, in fog, could be picked up by the pilot to tell him not only where the airport was but lead him safely to a landing.

While the demonstration was made on a miniature scale, he said that the entire equipment that would have to be installed in an airplane would weigh not more than 50 pounds.

It would consist of a "pick-up" device, he said, for intercepting the waves and feeding into an amplifier to which the earphones would be connected for the sound signal and the electrical meter for the optical signal.

Retired Capitalist Unfolds Plan for Prolonging Life

St. Louis Man in Paris Advertises for Couple to Experiment in Reversion to More Primitive Form of Living; Daily Duties Suicide, He Says.

Paris, Aug. 28 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Park G. Hammar, retired St. Louis paint manufacturer, who aroused interest here several weeks ago by having inserted in Russian-language newspapers in Paris advertisements for a couple to make an experiment in prolongation of life by reversion to a more primitive manner of living, made a formal statement in his Paris apartment today "to correct the impression that I am some kind of a crank," as he expressed it.

With a Russian collaborator who has been experimenting along similar lines, Mr. Hammar explained, he is merely preparing to make an experiment as an "unacademic amateur" in a new method of living. All human beings now live incorrectly, he believes, because they exaggerate upright position. A continuous effort to correct organ difficulties arising from the upright position might succeed, Mr. Hammar thinks, by lying at fixed periods on the stomach over a log or gymnasium "horse," thereby allowing the organs to assume the easiest position, resulting in a complete cleansing of the system. He would go a step beyond Metchnikoff by an effort to keep the body always free of waste material.

Mr. Hammar said he might use Russians or Americans as voluntary subjects of the experiments which he intends to start this autumn in Florida or California, as swimming, the perfect exercise, is a part of the training. The basis of the experiment will be the action of the stomach during one hour's time and at the height of the training period to bring the body the Shoreham Building three blocks away. There, Mr. Vallance introduced the speaker to the "unseen audience."

Dinner Guests Excited.

Meanwhile, a flurry of excitement played over the glitter of the Carlton Hotel Terrace. The several hundred persons at the dinner had expected the address to be made before them. Members of the dinner committee were working frantically to affect some remedy for the change in plans.

A radio was brought as close to the terrace as possible so that the local and visiting lawyers and their relatives and friends might hear the address through the medium of the receiving set. But the radio wouldn't work. Frantic maneuvering of the dials were to no avail. Nothing but static came over the air.

Three blocks away, high above the broadcasting studio, Sir John was city in the quiet of the Columbia making his address. A ruddy, slightly bald gray-haired man, unmistakably British looking, he tossed aside his evening coat and sat in his dress shirt before the microphone. Mr. Wallace, having made the speech of introduction, sat across the table from the speaker.

Deserves American Support.

The speech, based on Sir John's experiences and observations as chairman of the Royal British Commission of Inquiry into India, consumed about 40 minutes. In the address, he said that the Indian problem "is a confused complication of questions which can not be disposed of in a pose of confident omniscence or vague sympathy." He declared that Great Britain deserves the sympathy and support of the American people in striving to develop self-governing institutions among an Oriental people, few of whom knew anything of Western political conceptions.

"It is the most complicated and difficult as well as one of the most fascinating problems today," he said. The address represented the first public utterance of the British jurist since his recently published report on India.

Back at the Carlton Hotel the coffee had been served and the guests were settling down for the feast of oratory. An entree was served by one of the French lawyers in his native language. Then Sir John and Mr. Vallance returned from the broadcasting studio. When the French lawyer had completed his speech Mr. Vallance arose and introduced Sir John.

Introduced Once More.

Expressing regret that Sir John had been forced to leave the dinner in order to make his address on scheduled time, Mr. Vallance told the gathering that the distinguished visitor would now endeavor to tell briefly something of the Indian problem. Sir John arose to the accompaniment of a generous round of applause.

With a smile as refreshing and British as a breeze from the North Sea, he told the expectant audience that "at 5 minutes to 10 it was impossible to discuss the Indian problem." He then pointed out that the rule of punctuality had forced him to abandon making the address at the dinner at a later hour.

"It was a situation," he said, "that neither the American Government, the American Constitution or the deep waters of the Potomac River could control." (Here he referred to the late return from the trip to Mount Vernon on the ferry Porpoise.)

"Time and tide," he added, "will await no man. And we have found that there is one thing that won't wait and that is the Columbia Broadcasting System of America."

Tribute to Lincoln.

The speaker then launched into a gallant tribute to the Lincoln Memorial and to the Gettysburg address, speaking of the memorial as the finest in existence, and of the address as the finest made in time of emergency from a man to his people.

"The memory of the City of Washington will always abide with us," he added. "Of this peaceful and serene city, we will carry away our most precious memories."

As Sir John made these last remarks, a deafening roar invaded Sixteenth street as fire engines rushed to the Gordon Hotel across the way where a mattress had caught on fire in an upstairs apartment.

The coming of this incident literally "broke up the party" and proved at the same time that as a force of attraction a fire engine draws no distinction between small boys and distinguished lawyers. The barristers from abroad thronged the street in front of the hotel to watch the fire fighters scale the fascade of the Gordon Hotel.

A reception was scheduled for 10:30 o'clock at the French Embassy. Many of the guests lingered to watch the fire, but Sir John, again remembering the golden rule of punctuality, hastened into a limousine with Lady Simon. "The French Embassy," he directed the driver, "and be there by 10:30."

Outlines Present Conditions.

Outlining Indian conditions in his radio talk, Sir John cited that India is a mixture of races, religions, languages and civilizations, with Oriental traditions; that all parties in Great Britain agree upon a program of gradual, progressive realization of responsible self-government and despite "the difficulties which some Indians throw in the way by a policy of noncooperation," he said, evidently referring to Ghandi, this policy is being steadily pursued.

"But no one," he continued, "can produce a practical plan for developing this policy who does not first try to appreciate the variety and complexity of the facts.

"In the whole of India there are only 33 towns which have a population of over 100,000. It is in these towns that are, for the most part, found the educated minority. Many of them speak English admirably, but there are only 2,500,000 out of 320,000,000 of Indians who speak or understand English. There is no single common Indian tongue, though some Indian languages prevail over vast areas. Apart from the hundreds of vernacular languages there are at least a dozen leading tongues, some of which belong to entirely different families of speech and are utterly incomprehensible to people in other parts of India.

Caste Terrible Obstacle.

"To this confusion of tongues and immensity of races and religions—70,000,000 Mohammedans, for example, and over 200,000,000 Hindus, the latter broken up into over 2,000 different castes. This conception of caste governs the life of the ordinary Hindu from birth to death and introduces a terrible obstacle to social and political progress which has no parallel elsewhere. You Americans have no such difficulty in the Philippines. Every Hindu necessarily belongs to the caste of his parents. His whole life and his occupation may be determined by his caste. He marries within his caste and the system recognizes and insists upon distinctions between the Brahmins at the top and the 'untouchables' at the bottom, which are quite inconsistent with our notions of a democratic society.

"Of the whole population of India, one-fifth are these 'untouchables,' or depressed classes, condemned by the system of which they form a part to menial and degrading occupations, denied access to the interior of a Hindu temple and fearing nothing so much as that they should come under unrestricted Brahmin domination. They are compelled to live apart from the rest of the village. They are frequently denied the right of taking water from the same source as others. Their children are often excluded from the common schools, and there are parts of India where their shadow or even their proximity is regarded as creating pollution. And all this is due to ancient religious and social teaching and custom, the attempt to interfere with which creates violent protest from the orthodox.

General Course Dangerous.

"Any one who really understands the complicated structure of Indian society will appreciate how dangerous and foolish it would be to form a confident judgment or to recommend a general course of treatment for India as a whole.

"The difficulty with India's constitutional problem is that the mass of Indians know nothing of Western political conceptions, and yet the educated minority is urging a rapid application of representative institutions based on Western models in an Eastern continent, whose traditions of government are Oriental.

"India is not some single problem. It is a collection of problems which call for hard study and clear thinking, for upon their wise and sympathetic treatment now depend issues incomparably great for the whole world.

Entitled to Sympathy.

"I say boldly that Britain is entitled to the sympathy and support of the American people in the effort she is making to develop self-government institutions in that Oriental continent. If ever a country in the history of the world endeavored to encourage the progress of self-government among Oriental people in the face of every sort of difficulty and discouragement, that country is Britain in relation to the vast problem of India.

"But it is useless to refuse to face the difficulties or to imagine that they can be removed by the use of a phrase. One-third of the area of India is not British at all. It consists of 560 Indian states, the rulers of which look to the British crown under their treaties of agreement to preserve their integrity and protect them from external danger. I trust that a federal system may be evolved with the good will of the Indian princes, which will preserve their undoubted right and at the same time promote the constitutional development of India as a whole.

Army Defense Difficult.

"Again the Army defense and the maintenance of order in the country are two of the most difficult practical problems of their kind in the world. It is British rule in the past which has given India security and it is bound to be a gradual transformation and not a sudden change which can hand over more completely to Indians, themselves, these grave responsibilities and the complicated machine which discharges them.

ALEXANDRIA BOARD URGES NEW SCHOOL

$300,000 Building to Care for 1,000 Students to Be Recommended.

ROAD BIDS TO BE ASKED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The construction of a new high school building, at a cost of approximately $300,000, to accommodate 1,000 students, and to employ 30 extra teachers, will be recommended to the city council when that body reconvenes next week, it was announced by the city school board.

The present high school facilities are entirely inadequate, according to the school board, and it has been necessary to use the old West End School Building, which was sold several years ago to the George Washington Masonic Memorial Association, as an overflow building for high school students, about 50 of whom have received their instruction there.

R. C. Bowton, superintendent of the Alexandria schools, was in Richmond yesterday conferring with Raymond V. Long, superintendent of school buildings of the State school board, and it is expected that plans for the new building will be ready within the next 60 days. It is planned to erect the new building on a lot adjoining the present high school.

The proposed new building will contain approximately 30 classrooms, an auditorium, basement, and probably office rooms for the school board. In the event of its erection the present high school building will probably be used either as a junior high school or to take care of the primary grades. It is estimated that more than 300 pupils of the lower grades were restricted to half time last year.

Bids for the reconstruction and widening of the Four Mile Run Bridge on the Mount Vernon highway, which marks the line between the City of Alexandria and Arlington County, will be asked for shortly, as a result of a conference yesterday between City Manager Wallace Lawrence, of Alexandria; City Engineer E. C. Dunn, C. L. Kinnear, Arlington County engineer, and Edward Duncan, president of the Arlington County board of supervisors.

The bridge, as agreed upon, will afford a roadway of 36 feet, with sidewalks on either side, curb and gutter, or a total of approximately 40 feet.

MARYLAND PAPER SUES RIVAL ORGAN

RESULT OF PARTY CLASH

Damages of $200,000 for alleged libel are claimed in a suit filed yesterday by the Maryland Publishing Co., publishers of the Maryland News, official organ of the organization Democrats of Montgomery County, against the Independent Publishing Co. of Rockville, publishers of the Montgomery Independent, organ of the antiorganization forces of the county, and Morris A. Bealle, former editor of the Independent.

The suit was filed in circuit court at Rockville by Attorney Roger J. Whiteford, of Washington, attorney for the Maryland Publishing Co. The case will be docketed for trial at the November term of court. Bealle is no longer connected with the Rockville publication, the control of the Independent having passed into other hands.

The alleged libel is based upon statements asserted to have been printed in the Independent on August 30, 1929, which "maliciously and unlawfully intended to injure the plaintiff in its reputation and business and to cause its patrons and subscribers to suspect and believe it not to be a reliable newspaper," the bill of complaint charges.

The offending statements are: "George Sacks, millionaire retired ice cream manufacturer, who allows his name to go on the masthead of the Maryland News to give the defamatory sheet respectability, gets $40 for coming to a meeting of the Board of Zoning Appeals. Mr. Sacks recently was given a road, or rather repairs and development of one, through his property at a cost of over $30,000 to the taxpayers."

"When it comes time for the people's faction to elect a leader and to name honest efficient candidates to run for the various offices we will bet all the rice in China that they will not ask E. Brooke Lee (meaning thereby the E. Brooke Lee, president of and principal stockholder in plaintiff corporation and reputed to control the policies of the said Maryland News and to be the virtual owner thereof) or his defamatory publication, 'The Scissors' (meaning thereby plaintiff's said newspaper, the Maryland News, and intending to charge the publication therein of defamatory matter and that the reading matter in said newspaper was not original but consisted of articles clipped or cut with scissors from other publications) to do the nominating for them."

The Montgomery County Commissioners and J. Forrest Walker, county treasurer, yesterday filed demurrers to the amended declaration in the suit recently filed in the circuit court at Rockville which seeks to pay back to the county money which had been paid to the Maryland News in payment for county advertising and printing while members of the board of county commissioners were on the board of directors of the newspaper.

The demurrer was filed on behalf of the county officials by Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, counsel to the county commissioners, and contends that even though the contentions of Walter W. Mobley, of Derwood, plaintiff in the taxpayer's suit, be true, the plaintiff has no relief in equity. The demurrer contends that Treasurer Walker is merely an administerial officer and paid the money, amounting to approximately $25,000, upon the order of the county commissioners and therefore is not properly a defendant.

Judge Robert B. Peter expects to set an early date for the arguments on the demurrers. A similar demurrer was filed on behalf of the Maryland News by Roger J. Whiteford, attorney for the Maryland Publishing Co., which contends that the publication is not properly a defendant.

Republican candidates in Montgomery County will be the principal speakers at a joint rally of the Men's and Women's Republican Clubs of Silver Spring, which will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Silver Spring Masonic Temple.

F. Barnard Welsh, candidate for State's attorney; Thomas M. Anderson, candidate for State senator; Frank L. Hewitt, of Silver Spring, and Dr. C. C. Galloway, of Takoma Park, candidates for the House of Delegates, and John Humphries, of Takoma Park, candidate for county commissioner, Paul Sleman, chairman of the Republican State central committee for Montgomery County, also has been invited to attend.

Democrats Praise Park Land Project

Advantages to Montgomery County which would accrue from acceptance of the Cramton bill, which provides for the loan of $3,000,000 without interest to the county for purchase of park lands, were pointed out by speakers at a mass meeting of organization Democrats held last night at the Bethesda moving picture theater. The advisability of retaining in office the present administration in order that the progress of the county could be unchecked was urged by the speakers.

It was pointed out that more than half of the money spent in the suburban area had been expended in the Bethesda area, which includes Chevy Chase and the western portion of the suburban area. Among those who spoke were: Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county leader; Miss Lavania Engle, candidate for House of Delegates; Andrew J. "Cy" Cummings, Stedman Prescott, candidate for State's attorney; John Imirie and Emory H. Bogley who presided.

WOMEN BEG AIRMAN FOR OVERSEA FLIGHT

FLIER AT WHITE HOUSE

Fifty men and women have asked him to take them along on his proposed round-trip flight over the Atlantic Ocean, Russell Boardman, young Boston aviator, revealed yesterday when he called on President Hoover at the White House.

And the most eager and most persistent of the applicants, he said, are the women. One of them, he said, has bombarded him with appeals ever since he announced his plans for the flight, telling him that if he would let her go along she would be "the happiest woman in the world."

Boardman, who plans to hop off September 3, weather permitting, has not yet selected the man who will accompany him. Whoever is selected will be well versed in navigation and radio.

The flier came here yesterday morning, landing at Bolling Field in the Bellanca monoplane he plans to use in his flight. He was accompanied to the White House by a delegation of local American Legion men.

Boardman, who is the first to plan a round trip across the Atlantic, will take off from Boston and head for Dublin, Ireland. Then he plans to visit London, Paris, and Brussels. In each city he will extend an invitation to war veterans to attend the American Legion convention in Boston.

The American Legion is sponsoring the flight.

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Aug. 28.—Mrs. William Atkins, living 4 miles south of Luray, Wednesday night saved herself from being burned alive and her home from destruction when she jumped out of bed to repeat her customary "Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep."

Mrs. Atkins retired about 10 o'clock. At 11 o'clock she awoke and remembered she had forgotten to say her prayers before retiring. She bounded out of bed, and as she was in the act of kneeling beside her couch she heard a roaring, cracking noise over head.

She discovered that her dwelling was on fire. She ran to her telephone to call the Luray Fire Department. Fortunately several buckets of water were near at hand and in a short time she had subdued the fire. She immediately canceled her order to the Luray Fire Department just as the firemen were preparing to leave.

HOOVER PROMISES KEPT, REPORT SAYS

Few Presidents Have Held to Pledges as Well, Claims G. O. P. Committee.

DYER BILL SOLE BLANK

A 49-page statement was issued yesterday by the Republican national committee, the purpose of which was to show that President Hoover has been fulfilling the campaign promises his party made at Kansas City.

Few administrations in recent times, it says, have compiled such a record of promises kept as has his administration, and this despite "handicaps which would have discouraged men of less sturdy courage and strong determination than Mr. Hoover has demonstrated."

In one column appear the various pledges in the Kansas City platform, and in another appear statements telling how President Hoover has made good on them.

In one instance, however, no claim of fulfillment is made, the space opposite the Negro plank being left blank. The platform promised that Congress would be urged at the earliest possible date to enact a Federal antilynching law "so that the full influence of the Federal Government" might be wielded to "exterminate this hideous crime." The Dyer bill, which would do this, failed of passage at the last session.

Listing the other campaign pledges, the statement declares, under the heading of public economy, that President Hoover in his first budget message held Federal expenditures to the same sum provided the year before under Coolidge, and yet by shifts of expenditures provided for expansion of the merchant marine and internal waterways; that as a result of wise financial policies, the end of the first fiscal year of the administration found a Treasury surplus of $184,000,000; that an additional reduction of $1,160,000,000 has been effected in the public debt; that income taxes for 1929 were reduced by $160,000,000; that the French debt settlement of $4,000,000,000 was ratified, thus completing the refunding of $11,577,000,000 of war indebtedness by foreign governments.

Under the heading of "Tariff," the statement says:

"The 1922 tariff law was revised to furnish greater protetcion both to American labor and agriculture, with a strengthened flexible provision under which the President may change rates within a limited scope, with a view to making unnecessary general legislative tariff revision for many years to come."

The statement than lists more evidence of promises being kept: The creation of the Federal Farm Board and the improvement of waterways to help the farmers; the negotiation of the London Naval Treaty; the adoption of a new policy in Haiti; the withdrawal of the Marines from Nicaragua and the settlement of the Tacna-Arica dispute; the enactment of a scientific civil service retirement law; the increase in appropriations for highway construction; the aiding of labor by tariff revisions and by the promises obtained from industrialists not to reduce wages; the speeding up of the Interstate Commerce Commission plan for railroad consolidation; the Hoover plan for developing the American merchant marine, which Congress has authorized, and which will result in the construction of nearly 500,000 tons of new ships; the determination to maintain the Navy at treaty strength; the reorganization of the Federal Radio Commission and of the Federal Power Commission.

Shouse Answers Vandenberg.

The legislation to liberalize benefits to disabled war veterans; the transfer of the Prohibition Bureau from the Treasury to the Department of Justice in the interest of better enforcement, and the establishment of commercial air lines to South America and Central America in cooperation with the Department of Commerce.

A statement was issued yesterday by Chairman Jouett Shouse, of the Democratic national executive committee, in reply to one issued two days before by Senator Arthur Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan. Thus it was a counter denial, for the Vandenberg statement had denied the truth of one issued previously by Shouse.

Beginning of Argument.

The argument began when Shouse declared that the Tariff Commission had made no investigation of the tariff rates on certain items demanded by Senate resolution following the passage of the tariff act.

Crying "fiddle faddle," Senator Vandenberg said he knew this was untrue because Grand Rapids furniture men already had testified before the Tariff Commission in connection with the investigation ordered by the Senate.

In his statement yesterday, Mr. Shouse said that Senator Vandenberg's statement was "incredible." While the Grand Rapids men may have conferred with certain experts of the Tariff Commission, he said, they certainly couldn't have testified because the commission itself has not yet held a hearing.

Senate Candidate Hits Drought Plan

Farmers Should Not Have to Pay Interest for Loans, Says Byars.

J. Cloyd Byars, Independent candidate for the senate from Virginia, yesterday expressed himself regarding the President's relief program for the distressed drought-stricken farmers.

In his remarks he stated: "The program is all right with the exception that money loaned drought-stricken farmers should be for five or ten years, without interest, or if interest is demanded, it should be paid by the State or Federal Government." He further stated, "No institution or individual should profit or want to profit from a national calamity, least of all the Federal Reserve system, whose board precipitated the stock crash last November, with the inevitable business depression and unemployment. The National City Bank of New York incurred the hostility and bitter denunciation of Senator Carter Glass."

Shifting his attack to Senator Glass, Mr. Byars declared: "For ten years Senator Glass has been the High Priest of depression. He has plutocratized prosperity. His economic theories put into practice by the Federal Reserve Board, sitting behind closed doors, have twice wrecked national prosperity within ten years. In both instances, 1920 and 1929, their course has been indorsed, approved and publicly defended by the Senator who claims responsibility for the act."

FOUR GIRLS CONFESS 40 INCENDIARY FIRES

Children, 8 to 15, Impoverish Parents by Destroying Home and Goods.

ACTS COST FATHER'S JOB

Pontiac, Mich., Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Four girls, aged 8 to 15, confessed today, according to State and county officials, that they started the nearly 40 fires which have impoverished their parents and puzzled all investigators over a period of more than a month.

The first fire destroyed the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Crotser, near Battle Creek, Mich. The oldest daughter, Dorothy, told officers today after long questioning that she started that fire in the hope of implicating a neighbor whom she disliked. Later, she said, she was aided by her sisters, Evelyn, 13; Helen, 11, and Frances, 8.

The other girls also confessed. All said their parents knew nothing of their activities.

After their home near Battle Creek burned, the family moved to Athens, Mich. There a long series of small fires broke out, defying the efforts of State and county officers and of an insurance company representative to determine their cause.

The family was ordered out of its home in Athens Saturday and the parents came to Oakland County to stay with a brother of Crotser. The children were left behind with a grandmother. Two fires broke out after the parents left.

Their father, a nursery stock salesman, lost his job because of the mysterious fires. Virtually their only possession now is an automobile. One of the fires broke out in it a few weeks ago. They had no insurance on their household furnishings and none of the houses in which they lived belonged to them.

The three older girls were taken to Battle Creek tonight and will face charges, the exact nature of which has not been determined, in Calhoun County probate court, there.

Familiar With Planes, Woman Sees First Train

Special to The Washington Post.

Buckhannon, W. Va., Aug. 28.—To see one of the modern inventions and miss a dozen others antedating it is the novel experience of Miss Ollia Clarkson, 70, of Cow Run, Upshur County, 17 miles from Buckhannon.

On a recent visit to relatives here, Miss Clarkson for the first time in her life heard a radio, saw a train, rode in an automobile, used a telephone and saw an electric light. It was the first time she had traveled more than 10 miles from her home. But on many prior occasions she had seen an airplane, as these had often flown over her cabin home.

DRY CHIEFS STRESS ENFORCEMENT NEED

State but five has an enforcement law of its own, aside from those of many city governments, in some cases more drastic than the Federal laws. With the machinery for making these laws effective, these city and State governments really have 175,000 peace-time officers available to aid the Prohibition Bureau.

"Enforcement of these laws constitutes merely one part of the tremendously important task of enforcing the criminal laws generally," he said. "The associations and ramifications of the criminal element generally are such that prosecutions and convictions under prohibition laws tend to prevent commission and effect punishment of other crimes through application of the civil service laws and other circumstances."

Personnel Is Improving.

He added that the quality of men in the service had shown constant improvement.

"The effectiveness of their work and their way of doing it has improved," he declared. "No mercy will be shown to the corrupt or unfit agent. The job is more important than the man who happens to fill it."

The Prohibition Bureau now is completing plans for the opening next Tuesday of its school for agents to be attended by two men from each administrative district, who in turn, will return to their posts and then instruct fellow agents.

WIDE TAXICAB QUIZ TO BE MADE IN CITY

Financial Responsibility and Other Phases of Situation to Be Probed.

UTILITIES BOARD ACTS

A thorough investigation of financial responsibility of District taxicab operators, use of meters and all matters pertaining to rates, zones and other details of taxicab operation will be made at a public hearing announced for 10 a. m. on September 10 by the Public Utilities Commission yesterday.

This is the commission's second attempt to straighten out questions raised regarding the taxicab situation, the first having been last November when a tentative taxicab code was prepared and, after some revision, put into effect in January of this year.

The code covered such matters as financial responsibility of operators, reliability of meters, lights, brakes and other equipment, moral qualifications of taxi operators, rates, tolls, charges and other points.

Soon after adoption of the code, however, the District Supreme Court ruled that the commission was without authority to require taxicab owners to establish their financial responsibility before being allowed to operate. This was followed closely by introduction of vast fleets of taxicabs operated on the zone system, dispensing with meters and carrying passengers anywhere within certain boundaries for a flat rate of 35 cents.

Seeking to learn facts regarding taxicab operation in the District, the Public Utilities Commission recently issued an order requiring all taxicab operators to file monthly statements of their financial dealings. One result of this order was discovery that 150 or more operators had given false addresses, and because of faulty bookkeeping many of those statements which were received were found practically valueless to the commission.

Congress failed at its last session to pass a law sought by the commission empowering it to compel taxicab operators to prove their financial responsibility, and the commission is now awaiting a decision from the Court of Appeals on its appeal from the subsequent decision of the District Supreme Court.

Tarkington in Hospital; Blindness DangerDenied

Baltimore, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Booth Tarkington, Indiana novelist, is a patient at the Wilmer Institute at Johns Hopkins because of his recurrent eye trouble, but hospital officials denied a report that he was in immediate danger of losing his sight. A report from his summer home at Kennebunkport, Me., was that he was able to distinguish only between light and darkness.

Mr. Tarkington has been a sufferer with defective sight for several years. He was a patient at the hospital for several months early in 1929 and in March of that year underwent an operation to save the sight of his right eye which was called by Dr. William H. Wilmer "a remarkable success."

Balloonists Fear Canadian Forests

German and French Entries in Bennett Race See Hazard in Woods.

Cleveland, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—A belief that this year's international Gordon Bennett balloon race will end in the forests of northern Canada was expressed today by the German and French entrants in the contest. They are Dr. Hugo Kaulen, jr., of Germany, and Albert Boitard, of France, who, with Ernest Demuyter, Belgian entry, will represent Europe's attempt to check the United States' string of four consecutive victories.

Uncle Sam will defend his partial hold on the title with balloons from Detroit, Cleveland and the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. There will be just the six entries in the event which will start Labor Day at Cleveland's Municipal Airport.

Kaulen said tonight the foreign entrants are ready to sacrifice almost anything in the hope of winning. "We may throw everything overboard except the sealed barograph," he said. "We will carry a rubber boat, food for ten days and a radio compass, but all this may go over before we reach the end of our journey."

Boitard said he and his aid, Jean Herbe, probably will throw away their food and heavy clothing as they near the end of their flight and risk starvation and exposure.

Atlantic City Drowning Victim Washed Ashore

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 28 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The body of Graziano Ierardi, 19, Philadelphia, was washed ashore at Longport Beach early today.

Ierardi, it was learned, went bathing Sunday afternoon, entering the water at Georgia avenue and the Boardwalk. Shortly afterward other bathers heard his cries of distress, but when they reached the spot where he had been swimming he had disappeared.

CLUB EMPLOYE HELD IN ATTACK ON MAID

VICTIM LEFT IN WOODS

Chappaqua, N. Y., Aug. 28 (N.Y. W.N.S.)—A 25-year-old man who runs a lawnmower for the Whippoorwill Country Club at Chappaqua was arrested by State troopers today for criminally assaulting Alli Engberg, 17, who thought he was going to give her a job as housemaid. It was to this obscure laborer that police were led in their search for the supposedly wealthy, middle-aged "Mr. Scott" who told Miss Engberg he was "only fooling" over the housemaid job, beat her with a hammer, attacked her and left her unconscious in a lonely patch of woods near Katonah last Monday night.

Miss Engberg is now in the hospital with a fractured skull, a torn scalp and a bruised body.

Registered for Job.

The young man of the lawn mower is Claude Palmgren, 25, also known as Claude Scott. While refusing to say whether he had confessed, the State police did reveal that Palmgren appeared to gloat over the crime.

According to Miss Enbgerg, she registered at the Edwards & Bowen Employment Agency, New York, for a job. On Monday she was told to go to Katonah that night to take a post as maid in the household of Mr. Scott. She was to receive $50 a month and board. Mr. Scott would meet her at the station.

She reached Katonah at 10 p. m., the girl continued, and Mr. Scott met her—a well-dressed, middle-aged man alone in the big car. He said he was taking her to his home, but after driving along lonely roads for an hour he suddenly stopped the car and told her bluntly he was "only fooling."

Tried to Run Away.

Miss Engberg screamed and tried to run away, she told the police, but "Mr. Scott" threatened her with a pistol, struck her over the head with a hammer, and warned her, "I've done others this way before." She fought him, but he beat her into unconsciousness.

The State troopers immedately communicated with the employment agency and learned that "Mr. Scott" had given his address as Whippoorwill road, Katonah. There is no such road in Katonah, but there is one in Chappaqua. By a process of elimination, they reached Palmgren. In his belongings, according to the police, were found the girl's pocketbook, her ring and her blood-spattered hat. A blood-stained hammer was found near the scene of the assault, which is about 6 miles north of Katonah.

into what he considers full function, the day will be divided into twelve periods of two hours each, during each of which the body performs all functions.

"Daily life is daily suicide," said Mr. Hammar's statement today. "I want to obtain perfect balance between nutrition, functioning and the elimination of waste tissues so the aging process will be retarded, arrested, reserved."

The ultra-violet ray is important to the success of the experiment, he says, adding, "I don't know how far we can go toward prolongation of life, as I see no reason for so-called 'natural death' once tissues are perfectly replaced."

Mr. Hammar is returning to St. Louis in a few weeks when he has completed his European investigations.

"I notice I have been called Mr. Methusaleh," he said today. "I don't mind. All I want to do is to hold out hope of life to people who feel themselves slipping toward weak old age and death. Any experiment for human happiness is worth trying."

see if something can't be done about this Police Department."

The girl declared that she and a member of Congress had an appointment with police officials this morning at which time she said formal charges are to be filed.

Officials Ignorant of Charges.

Police officials who were consulted yesterday said that they knew nothing of the charges made in court against the policeman. The girl did not make her statement in court until late in the afternoon, when most of the men consulted had gone home.

Inasmuch as no formal charges have been made to officials, Gravely has not yet been suspended. He had gone off duty yesterday before the girl brought forth her grievances.

Several months ago Gravely was summarily reduced from detective by Maj. Pratt and transferred to his present post in the Second Precinct.

Shot Man in Capital.

Gravely figured largely in the public attention last April, when he appeared in Police Court on a charge of assault. He shot James B. Crotts near an alleged disorderly house on First street northwest near U street when the operator of the house claimed that Crotts, with two other men, had attempted to extort money from her. Crotts was running from the scene when he was fired upon.

Gravely said that Crotts made a motion toward his back pocket as he fled. Crotts said he thought Gravely was a hold-up man. Gravely was discharged by the court, which held that the shooting was justified.

Crotts and his two companions, one a policeman in the Fourth Precinct, were later tried on extortion charges and acquitted.

The Ambassador, who yesterday inspected the famous prehistoric caves near Santander, was undaunted by a heat wave in his zeal for study of ancient man. Seville, his immediate destination, is in the hottest part of the peninsula, and the present is the hottest season of the year.

He spent most of the day before leaving in visiting Madrid's collection of prehistoric and classical art and her museums of natural history and her museums of natural history.

year he is alleged to have got the $10,000 from Mrs. Ewald.

Tommaney, a sheriff's office clerk, has repeatedly refused to talk before a Federal grand jury, although he testified before a county grand jury that the money was a loan from Mrs. Ewald to Healy and had no connection with Ewald's appointment. Mrs. Ewald and Healy have followed the same course, testifying in one place and refusing to in another.

Today United States Attorney Tuttle took Tommaney, after his latest refusal, before a Federal court with a list of 34 questions. The judge ordered him to answer three of the questions, but told him he did not have to reply to the rest, many of which dealt with the money.

Healy's indictment came a little later. After he had pleaded not guilty, the deposed official of the city department of plant and structures was admitted to bail of $2,000. Another grand jury will be asked to indict him for alleged failure to file income tax returns for the years 1928 and 1929.

Treasurer and Secretary of State Follow Capone's Lawyer to Stand.

FEARED FOR GOVERNOR

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Preliminary hearing for three men charged with conspiracy to procure the assassination of Gov. Doyle E. Carlton moved through its second day today with State and defense switching the spotlight in many directions.

Cross-examining Vincent C. Giblin, Miami attorney for "Al" Capone, defense attorneys sought to bring out whether Capone had any interest or paid any bribes in the gambling or liquor business in Miami. They even quizzed the attorney as to whether he made any statements about Chicago murders.

Calls Self Investigator.

Giblin has testified he came into the case as an investigator because he heard that Carlton had been slain the killing was to be laid to Capone men. He said he proposed a $100,000 plan to get control of Miami gambling as a bait to draw out Frank Ralls, one of the defendants. He denied Capone had any liquor or gambling dealings in Miami.

The State called Secretary of State R. A. Gray and State Treasurer W. V. Knotts, both of whom testified to conferences they attended to discuss the alleged plot with Clem Dowling, former roommate of Ralls, who has testified he first exposed it. Both State officials testified that, after hearing Dowling they were apprehensive for the safety of the governor and advised him to take precautions.

The State also put on the stand W. A. Shands, of Gainesville, member of the State road department, who testified that Fred O. Eberhardt, Tallahassee editor, and a defendant, approached him with a plan to get control of Miami gambling.

Wanted Sheriff Removed.

Shands testified that when Eberhardt broached the matter to him he told him he did not believe it could be done. He said Eberhardt wanted to get the sheriff of Dade County removed and have the big gamblers protected and close the little ones. He said he related the matter to George B. Hills and they decided to "look into it further."

The next Saturday, Shands said he was in St. Augustine where he saw Hills. He said he told Hills he had another call from Eberhardt and Hills said that he never figured there was anything serious, but it now had developed to such a point that it "may go so far as to involve the life of the governor."

The road department member said he knew nothing about any assassination plot until arrests were made.

(Associated Press.)

An invitation to American business men to participate in the 1931 French Colonial Exposition at Paris was extended yesterday by C. Bascom Slemp, commissioner general of American representation at the fair.

In a more particular way," he added, "the purpose is to show our appreciation of the enlightened policy of France in its relations with its colonies."

Mr. Slemp said the United States already had benefited by virtue of France's colonial trade policy and the "possibility of future increased participation constitutes one of America's most valuable future assets in foreign trade."

LOVE OF CARTOONIST VALUED AT $100,000

WAR PICTURES RECALLED

New York, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Mrs. Bruce Bairnsfather, wife of the British cartoonist who created "Ole Bill" and "the Better 'Ole," today filed a $100,000 alienation suit against Constance Collier, actress widely known in England and in the United States.

Mrs. Bairnsfather charged the actress influenced her husband not to join her in London earlier in the summer, and that while she was away Miss Collier and Mr. Bairnsfather occupied together an apartment here in the West Fifties as "Mr. and Mrs. Bruce."

The friendship between Miss Collier and her husband, Mrs. Bairnsfather said in her complaint, was begun last April when they were collaborating on a play. They were still at work on the play, she said, when she left for England in May. Mr. Bairnsfather was to have followed her a few weeks later, but failed to do so.

Already well known on the British stage, Miss Collier made her American debut in 1908. Roles for which she is best known are those of the Queen in the London production of John Barrymore's "Hamlet," Portia, in "Julius Caesar," with William Faversham, and with Sir Herbert Tree in American presentations of "The Merry Wives of Windsor." Last winter she was starred in "The Matriarch" in Chicago and in New York.

Mr. Bairnsfather became famous during the war with his cartoons of the old British Tommy with the mustaches, who used to say when his comrade complained about the discomfort of their shell hole refuge, "If you know of a better 'ole, go to it." His "Ole Bill" became the hero of a Broadway show.

Since the war Mr. Bairnsfather has lived mostly in the United States.

The accident occurred when the cab slid off an embankment, trapping Williams inside when it overturned and knocked him unconscious.

KIDNAPER WILL AID DETROIT CRIME QUIZ

Long-Term Prisoner to Face Grand Jury as Witness for State in Probe.

STORY HELD "AMAZING"

Detroit, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—A kidnaper who turned State's evidence recently against two of his alleged companions in crime was on the list of witnesses to be called by Detroit's 22-man grand jury which began its work of investigating crime conditions today.

This man, Joseph (Legs) Laman, who is serving a 30 to 40 year prison sentence, will not be called, however, until jurors have completed the first phase of their investigation, which deals with the assassination on July 23 of Gerald E. (Jerry) Buckley, radio political commentator.

Wilber M. Brucker, attorney general of Michigan, discussing the probable testimony of Laman today said that the convict had given him an "amazing account" of underworld activities. Investigators, the attorney general indicated, are now engaged in checking up portions of his statement.

The jury held a short session today, calling only one witness, George Lumsden, secretary to Police Commissioner Thomas C. Wilcox. Lumsden was instructed to return tomorrow, taking with him certain police department records. The nature of these records was not revealed.

Wilcox, who was active personally in the Buckley case until August 16, has been out of the city since that date. He stated when he left that he was taking a rest on recommendation of a physician. Lumsden said today that he does not know where Wilcox is or when he will return. Two of the five men listed by Wilcox as wanted in connection with the killing have been arrested. They are Angelo Levicchi, held in jail here, and Ted Pizzino, who is seeking his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus in a New York court.

The grand jury investigation was precipitated by the killing of Buckley as he sat in the lobby of the La Salle Hotel a few hours after he had announced from Station WMBC the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles, whose administration he criticized in his radio talks. Previously there had been about a dozen gangster killings in a few weeks.

Navy Airman Died As Hero, Is Verdict

Coroner's Jury Decides Lieut. Deshazo Acted to Save Lives.

Chicago, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Lieut. John P. Deshazo, crack Navy flier, who was killed at the national air races here yesterday, died a hero, a coroner's jury decided today.

After hearing testimony from fellow pilots who witnessed the accident at closer range, the jury found that Deshazo's fatal fall was due to his anxiety to turn sharply from the stands at the end of his race and avoid the possibility of crashing into the midst of thousands of people.

The jury's verdict was that the deaths of Lieut. Deshazo and Louis Weiner, spectator who was killed, were accidental. Maj. Reed Landis, American war ace, presided over the inquest as a special deputy coroner.

Missing Flier Sighted In Wild Qukon Area

Atlin, B. C., Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Capt. E. J. A. ("Paddy") Burke, well-known Canadian flier, missing from here for more than a week, was sighted yesterday on a small lake in wild inland country of Yukon Territory by W. A. Joerss, pilot of a rescue plane.

Joerss, unable to land because of his heavy load of supplies and gasoline, said Burke and a prospector who was with him were uninjured and had apparently been forced down by engine trouble. Joerss dropped food and cigarettes to the stranded men and waved a greeting. It is likely a mechanic will be taken to the lake, 125 miles northeast of Teslin.

UNREST IN ARGENTINA.

Sinister developments in Argentina give rise to fears that the Irigoyen government may meet the fate of the Leguia government of Peru—overturn by a military coup. Discovery of a military plot has caused President Irigoyen to take prompt precautions, in which he is supported by loyal army officers and the peace authorities of Buenos Aires. As a coup d'etat usually depends upon secrecy and suddenness for its success, it may be that Irigoyen will be more fortunate than Leguia.

Many factors enter into the troubled situation in Argentina. The country is suffering from the depression that has swept over the world, intensified in Argentina's case by a curiously provocative policy on the part of the government. Irigoyen is a strange mixture of aristocrat and peasant, boastful of his contempt of either praise or blame on the part of the crowd, but cunningly shaping his course to appeal to the "common people." His brusqueness in foreign relations has greatly impaired the standing of Argentina abroad, including the United States, although Americans hold no ill-will against the country and would willingly restore the cordial relations that have been ruptured by Irigoyen. The Argentine President has been as arbitrary in domestic as in foreign affairs, thereby giving encouragement to the disaffection that prevails in the army.

The revelation of a revolutionary spirit in Argentina, following the outbursts in Bolivia and Peru, is proof enough that extraordinary stresses and strains are attacking the governments of South America. The combination of selfish rivalry for power and an unprecedented season of economic hardships is superimposed upon old quarrels over boundaries which are always likely to flame up into war. When statesmanship of the highest order is necessary to carry these countries through their numerous embarrassments they are harassed by juntas inspired by no nobler purpose than to grasp control of the sources of power and wealth. These juntas take advantage of economic depression to stir the people into revolution, but they offer nothing better than what they are seeking to destroy. The military dictatorship set up in Peru is obviously a temporary makeshift that will collapse when it undertakes the serious business of government. If the country should escape an ordeal of disorder and bloodshed during the period preceding the appearance of another stable government it will be fortunate indeed.

WASHINGTON'S SAFE TRAFFIC SYSTEM.

Although the number of automobiles in the District increased more than 19 per cent during the fiscal year ended June 30 last, the number of fatal accidents decreased more than 25 per cent. During the year ended June 30, 1929, there were 88 fatalities, whereas in the succeeding year there were but 63. Average traffic fatalities in 78 cities throughout the country are more than 25 per 100,000 population. The Washington rate is 13 per 100,000 population. Last year 2,810 persons were injured in traffic accidents as compared with 3,243 in the year ended June 30, 1929. The decrease in injuries and fatalities is especially significant in that the number of accidents increased from 6,684 to 7,576 in the fiscal year 1930 as compared with the fiscal year 1929.

Some Washingtonians express dissatisfaction with the traffic regulatory system. It is pointed out that local traffic moves sluggishly; it is held that the "rotary" left turn is confusing and obsolete, and it is charged that the system of divided authority between the police and the traffic director is inherently unsound. A special committee was appointed some time ago by the District Commissioners to consider the traffic problem and make recommendations for its alleviation. This committee's report may lead to changes in the traffic system.

In criticizing the local traffic situation it is well to consider the fact that Washington is the safest city in the country, from the standpoint of the pedestrian as well as the motorist. Whether or not the local system is theoretically sound, it does make for safety. The authorities should not yield to the temptation to make experiments which would diminish the effectiveness of the present system.

THE NATION'S SHARE.

For three years the District government has been eating into its surplus for funds required to balance the steadily increasing budget. The surplus is now nearly exhausted, and an increased tax rate seems inevitable. The preliminary estimates for 1932 are in excess of $48,000,000. In the budget-making process the estimates will be shaved somewhat, but there is no doubt that the budget will be larger than the usual Federal contribution, and a $1.70 tax rate will support.

The Commissioners are working on a revenue scheme predicated upon an increase in the tax rate to $1.80 and an increase in the Federal contribution to $10,000,000. The 10 cent tax increase will raise an additional $1,300,000 and the Federal lump sum would be increased by $500,000. The Commissioners are represented as believing that Congress, or more particularly the House, would consider this an advantageous "trade." Taxpayers would raise an additional $1,300,000 among themselves to be applied to the mounting costs of operating the District, in return for an increased Federal contribution amounting to a little more than one-third as much as their contribution.

Whether a 10 cent increase in the tax rate could be borne without hardship is yet to be proved. The burden of the local taxpayer is not light, in view of the fact that the assessment is based on the full valuation, and valuations are not low. The Commissioners should consider carefully the effect of raising the tax rate. There is a possibility that increased taxes might result in decreased revenues—that by adding to the tax burden desirable citizens and businesses might be driven to seek homes in other cities or, at least, discouraged from coming to Washington.

By basing the 1932 budget on a larger Federal contribution, however, the Commissioners are taking a step in the right direction. Since 1925, when a $9,000,000 lump sum was written into the District appropriation bill in place of the 60-40 proportionate distribution of expense, all the District budgets have been based on a $9,000,000 contribution from the Federal Government. The District has gone before Congress with a budget, inadequate but nevertheless complete in all details, based upon the expected contribution of $9,000,000, while at the same time it asked Congress to increase the Federal contribution. With documentary evidence that the District would be able to get along with a $9,000,000 contribution, it is little wonder that Congress refused to increase the lump sum or abandon it in favor of a Federal contribution on a fair percentage basis.

The 1932 budget should be based not on a $10,000,000 Federal contribution but upon a Federal ratio that would enable the District to go through the year without checking its development, which would make possible the retention of the $1.70 tax rate, and which would represent fairly the proper share of expense which the United States should assume in maintaining the National Capital.

ENTERPRISE, CUP DEFENDER.

Selection of the yacht Enterprise to defend the America's Cup was made suddenly, but did not come unexpectedly. Early in the summer there was a question as to whether Enterprise or Weetamoe was the better all-around craft, but from time to time minor modifications and improvements have been made on Enterprise, as a result of which she emerged as the logical selection for the cup races. Yankee and Whirlwind proved from the outset to be heavy weather boats. In a stiff wind either probably would be able to show her stern to Enterprise, Weetamoe or, for that matter, the Shamrock, but heavy weather is not made to order. The races are scheduled to begin on September 13, to continue daily thereafter until one of the vessels has won four races. Selection of the defender at this time gives its afterguard and crew two weeks' time in which to prepare for the contest.

A comparison of Enterprise with Shamrock shows them to be not dissimilar. Enterprise displaces 128 tons as compared with Shamrock's 134. The American boat is 120.9 feet overall and the English 119.1. The defender measures 80 feet at the water line as compared with the challenger's 81.1. Enterprise has an extreme breadth of 22.1 feet with a draft of 14.6 feet, while Shamrock has a breadth of 19.8 feet and a draft of 14.8. The defender carries 7,533 square feet of canvas and the challenger 7,540 square feet.

Two weeks hence the eyes of two nations will be focused upon these craft, for more than ordinary interest attends the cup races. Shamrock carries the hope of that indefatigable challenger, Sir Thomas Lipton, who, single-handedly, has tried for years to return the cup to England, and who has poured a sizable fortune into the construction of challenging yachts. Enterprise represents the best American shipbuilding talent, and the fact that she was selected from a field of four vessels, each of which was designed and constructed specifically for these races, makes her America's best hope.

If Enterprise should be defeated, however, the blow will not be bitter. A victory by Shamrock would be considered a victory not so much for England as for Sir Thomas Lipton himself, and as such it would be generally popular.

GOV. YOUNG'S RETIREMENT.

Roy A. Young, whose resignation as governor of the Federal Reserve Board takes effect September 1, is assured of a prominent place in the financial history of the country. His governorship of the country's most important regulatory financial institution embraced a period of severe economic crisis. As early as February, 1929, the Federal Reserve Board issued its first warning with respect to the "overextension" of credit, and from then until the stock market collapse it labored incessantly to improve the credit position of member banks. The several warnings of "overextension" drew a storm of protest from speculators, and even from bankers. The Federal Reserve System was accused of attempting to throttle the stock market. But when the smoke of the collapse had finally cleared away it was generally admitted that the board had been right in its position, and it was agreed that its insistence upon the restriction of speculative loans had been one of the factors that enabled the country to weather the storm.

Gov. Young steered a courageous, steady course prior to and through the financial storm. The sound judgment and firm resolve he evidenced during the crisis qualifies him for the position he will assume following his retirement from official life. As governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston he will continue to play an important role in the financial life of the country.

AMERICANISMS

By Sir William Craigie, in the London Times.

Nearly a century and a half ago Dr. Witherspoon, the Scottish president of Princeton, wrote for the first time on Americanisms, a word of his own coining, and formed (as he tells us) on the analogy of Scotticism. The fact that the subject required a name shows that the colonists had already made some difference in the language which they took with them. The difference was, indeed, much larger than Witherspoon realized. A closer study reveals that almost from the beginning the settlers were both adding to and altering their ordinary speech, not only by adopting new words from the Indians but by using the old words in new senses. It was not long before "corn" came to mean maize, and "lot" a piece of ground, "lumber" to be used for timber, and "hemlock" to denote a tree instead of a plant, while "branch" and "creek" became synonyms for stream. Words also which had little currency in the old country became common in the new, as swamp, swale, intervale, bottom, canoe, meeting house, log-house, cabin and many more.

It is often impossible to say when a particular Americanism was first used by a British writer or established itself in ordinary English use. The Oxford English Dictionary frequently fails to throw light on this point. Bluff, for example, in the sense of a steep bank, is of American origin, first noted (so far as traced at present) by John Wesley in 1737.

The total number of words or senses of American origin established in English by the middle of last century can not readily be estimated at present, but it would be small in comparison with the number which have flowed in since. Many of these have so quickly become familiar that their origin is unsuspected. What adjectives could be less suspicious than "governmental," "law-abiding" and "whole-souled?"

To range all over the alphabet to illustrate this theme would be to collect material enough for a volume. Here it will be sufficient to give the more striking instances from a single letter. Names of trees, plants, animals and other products of the country must be passed over and attention confined to words or uses of wider currency.

Of special interest are the words arising out of American life. Some are descriptive of the country, as "back country" and "backwoods," both as old as the middle of the eighteenth century, and the latter naturally giving rise to "backwoodsman" before 1800. Pioneers who could invent "back country" had no need later to import a German "hinterland." So the use of "belt," as in the corn belt or black belt, is more direct and picturesque than "zone." There are open-air phrases like "to take the back-track," "a bee-line" (although the equally common "air-line" has not been adopted in England), and such mining terms as "bed-rock" and "bonanza." The editor of a local Iowa newspaper in 1870 brought in the use of "blizzard" for a sudden and severe snowstorm.

Many colloquial terms are now perfectly at home anywhere in the English-speaking world. The earliest are "boss," "bogus" and "bunkum," a trio typical of the varied sources of our English tongue, for the first is Dutch, the second of unknown origin, while the third has raised from obscurity the name of Buncombe County, in North Carolina. The language of the lumber camp accounts for "boom" both as noun and verb beginning early in the seventies. "Bigbug" has been in use for more than a century, "big money" is more recent.

Among the phrases that to all appearances are American in origin are "to feel it in one's bones," "to fill the bill," "to take a back seat," "to be a back-number," "to bite off more than one can chew," "to brace up," "to blow in," and others yet more colloquial and slangy.

Such instances are significant, not only in themselves, but as an indication of what may follow in their wake. They are typical of many words and phrases already so well known to all readers of American fiction or American magazines that they may at any time be "conveyed" by English writers without exciting remark or opposition. It is only in special cases that the Americanism can not readily pass into English. But at their best the essential differences between the two languages are few and immaterial in the face of all that is common.

BEFORE THE WEDDING.

Be good to her, not in the trivial sense
Of utter disregard of all expense;
Not with that cruel kindness which believes
The purse can set her smiling when she grieves,
But in that wider meaning of the word
That never shall her faith in you be slurred.

Be good to her—from day to day be just Because you wish to, not because you must.
You take her life to glorify or mar.
Her happiness depends on what you are.
And though you lavish on her all your pelf,

You can not keep the touch of grief away,
Nor shut the door to sorrow's bitter day,
But you can say—for this you've power to do—
That no great hurt shall come to her through you.

Knighthood Is Ended When a Fine Coat Makes Every Man a Knight.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

In every land and every age certain superior men have distinguished themselves by observing self-imposed rules of conduct and restraint.

The rules vary with time and place, but in every instance they define a contemporary ideal of manhood.

In present-day America the rules are so vague and so varied that no universal standard can be found, yet everybody knows what is meant by the word "gentleman."

Gentlemen are not born. They are developed. But in lands where social castes are fixed, a gentleman's son is born with the assurance that he will be trained as a gentleman, and this gives rise to the popular belief that a gentleman is by nature superior to ordinary men.

In America, every normal boy who reads fairy stories wishes he had been born a prince. And since the gods denied him that good fortune, he is determined at least to be a gentleman.

There was a time, not many years ago, when the boy who wished to be a gentleman got his ideals from ancient books and the counsel of his father, and was taught that a gentleman must be schooled in self-restraint and unwavering honor.

That faith produced numbers of fine men.

Boys still wish to be gentlemen, but the present age offers them little opportunity to learn how.

We talk much about the degeneration of the "criminal class," and overlook the fact that something has happened to all of us.

We live in an age of imitations—imitation leather, imitation oak, imitation silk, imitation diamonds, imitation liquor. We are guided by labels. We are content with veneer. We do not care about an education if we can get a "dip." We do not save a fortune, but are content to seem rich. We invent short cuts—learn to sing in six weeks, buy an "outline" of science, acquire culture in ten easy lessons.

As a result we are becoming a race of pretenders, and the boy who would be a gentleman is taught that a dinner coat and a manicure and the ability to play bridge and golf will make him one.

Our civilization can survive criminals, for they are few. It cannot survive if boys do not learn that honor, now as always, is the foundation and pride and glory of a gentleman.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

NATIONAL LEADERS WHOSE INFLUENCE MR. GERARD OVERLOOKED.

Driggel, Lucius T.—International banker and railroad man. Mr. Driggel is not so hot in a business way, but he consistently gets 100 yards out of sand traps with a wooden club and uses a putter with moderate success from any point within 20 yards of a green.

• • • •

Buzzingby, Felix R.—Mr. Buzzingby is a director of 43 corporations, but no matter. The things that entitl' him to a place on any list of influential men is that he invented the Tom Thumb golf and is directly responsible for working a complete change in the habits of the American people overnight.

• • • •

Lapides, Jake—As the composer of 36 mammy songs, all of which testified to fanatical mother love as applied to Tennessee, Jake has wielded an influence over the United States such as few men of his time have even attempted. He is a real power.

• • • •

Cheeseman, Wyeth P. K. — Mr. Cheeseman is an oil magnate, a copper king and a power in the shipping world, but the spell he casts over American life is due to the fact he can whistle through his teeth, do a tap dance and blow smoke through his ears. He also goes in for flagpole sitting.

• • • •

Swoggle, Gustave—Mr. Swoggle is the proprietor of a chain of tabloid newspapers taken by 12,000,000 people who can't read and whose lives are influenced almost entirely by flashlight pictures of girl bandits, naked chorus girls and victims of love-nest slayings. If that's not exerting an influence, what is?

• • • •

Pimmockony, Elmer W. W.—Mr. Pimmockony is the undisputed leader in the field of pumping-station design. He has revolutionized the appearance of American street corners, destroyed the American public's sense of beauty and confused in the public mind the difference between good taste and a Welsh rarebit dream. Present-day ugliness of the country from an architectural standpoint is largely due to his zeal. No list of men who make America jump through paper hoops would be complete without him.

• • • •

Ginnipp, Caraway G.—Mr. Ginnipp writes for an audience of several million Americans under the name of "Dorothy Jicks," giving advice to the lovelorn and answering any and all questions from "Should I forgive my husband for throwing me through a window?" to "Is it wrong for a young girl to accept proposals of marriage from two men she has never seen?" Mr. Ginnipp has been doing this for 20 years and comes very close to running the country, if anybody does.

• • • •

Gallee, "Doodee"—When you are listing men who have the country by the ears you must not omit "Doodee" Gallee. He originated the idea of crooning over the radio, and if he doesn't influence more people than President Hoover, then the fan mail is very unreliable.

• • • •

Add similes: As indignant as a big business man who discovers his name has been left off the Gerald list.

Mr. Gerard, by the way, has added five more men to his list of 59 who rule the country. Maybe he is organizing a second team.

1 Jack Zuta.
2 Senator Smoot.
3 Bishop Cannon.
4 The N. Y. Boxing Commission.
5 Will Hays.
6 Congressman Heflin.
7 Any big mammy song writer.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Crushing Taxation Helps to Prostrate Agriculture—Suggests Tax Exemption on Tobacco Lands.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It appears that every time anything unusual happens that affects agriculture or industry a great hullabaloo is raised and those in authority bestir themselves with all kinds of quack panaceas to relieve the situation, creating in the minds of the people the illusion that the doors of the National Treasury will be thrown open and the money dispensed as freely as salvation.

Following the stock-market crash all the business leaders were called into conference, innumerable commissions were appointed, and the expenditure of billions was promised, but all the plans and promises went up in smoke. Now that the farmers have been hard-hit by the drought, and political campaigns are on and in the offing, the same performances of futility are again being staged, and the impression has been officially inspired and fostered that all the money needed will be available to the farmers upon request, and without regard to security for the advances that may be made. The immediate self-reliance of the farmer is destroyed, and he will soon wake up to find he has been bunkoed, as usual, and that the whole thing was a snare and a delusion.

There may be other practical ways of helping the farmer, but there are two ways as to which there can be no differences of opinion. Let the State and National Governments stop their wasteful and extravagant spending of the people's money in all sorts of useless and, in many instances, extra-constitutional activities, and thereby stop taxing the people to death, and making the cost of living almost prohibitory to the average person. Then let each State exempt from taxation over a given period of time the lands of the farmers used by them exclusively for agricultural purposes. The excessive local taxation of farm lands, coupled with the crushing burden of Federal taxation, represents more than any margin of profit it is possible for the farmer to make.

I know personally of a certain farm in one of our States upon which the taxes have been increased over seven fold within the past few years, with no improvements on the place or any corresponding increase of its value, but on the contrary a very great decline in its value. In the immediate section from whence I come tobacco is the principal crop. It is the most heavily taxed product in the country.

No industry can long survive, much less prosper, under such a crushing burden of taxation. The manufacturer of the raw product passes the tax on to the consumer, but there is no way in which the tobacco farmer can pass this tax on to anybody, and in order for the manufacturer to make any profit, because there is a limit to what he can charge the public, he pays the farmer as little as possible for his tobacco. If the national government persists in taxing tobacco so heavily it should devise some way by which some part, at least, of this tax could be returned to the farmer direct to put him somewhat on a parity with the manufacturer.

Taxation, crime, and prohibition are the three great and pressing problems before the American people.

Theater Patrons Prefer Good Live Music and Their Tastes Should Prevail.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: "The managers are unwilling to bind themselves to pay for unneeded and unwanted music."

This statement has appeared in print during the present controversy between living and canned music.

To the music-loving public that is hard to take on the chin.

Isn't it a fact that orchestral music is needed? Remember that without it there can be no satisfactory stage presentations, nor can there be the educational and pleasant overtures and musical interludes. These, to the fullest extent, afford relief from the otherwise canned programs which are presented at the present time.

A dark house, evidently, is neither a cheerful nor encouraging prospect to the opposing factions in this fight for living music, nor is it to the patron of the movie houses. Bear in mind, too, that he will, unquestionably, be the final judge in this dispute, for, after all, isn't he the one to be considered?

One could hardly deny that living music is wanted. Nothing speaks quite so clearly as a satisfied patron. Expressions of appreciation are always accorded the musicians for their efforts and these expressions come from the aforesaid patron. Keep him satisfied at little cost.

Zoo Should Distribute Map Showing Location of Animals and Layout of the Park.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I often go to the Zoo to watch the different animals. I know the location of all the animals and bird houses and where to find the birds and animals that are not kept in houses. Strangers who visit the Zoo are not familiar with the layout of the different houses. On numerous occasions I have had out-of-town visitors ask me where the bears or birds could be found.

It would be a good idea for the Zoo officials to have some small pamphlets printed, with a map of the Zoo and all the points of interest clearly designated. Then when strangers entered the park they could obtain one of these maps from a park policeman.

Washington has a fine collection of animals in its Zoo, and those who visit the park to view the animals should see them all or they are likely to return to their homes with the impression that the National Zoological Park possesses only a small collection of animals, whereas in reality it is one of the large museums of natural history in the United States.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Head Chosen For Women Geographers

Mrs. Huntington to Direct Association for Mrs. Adams.

By JEAN ELIOT.

WHEN Harriet Chalmers Adams sets forth next month on her proposed journey into East Africa, Frances Carpenter Huntington will step into her shoes as head of the Society of Woman Geographers. In private life the former is Mrs. Franklin Adams and the latter, Mrs. William Chapin Huntington, but both are far more widely known under the names with which their work is signed.

Mrs. Huntington is at present vice president of the Society of Woman Geographers and will be its acting president for the year or more that Mrs. Adams is away, pushing her way into Ethiopia, Italian Lybia, the region round the Persian Gulf and other storied lands of romance. Admission to the organization implies that its members have traveled extensively and have contributed something to the world's store of knowledge concerning the countries in which they have traveled. Mrs. Huntington's specialty is elementary geography.

She comes naturally by a wandering foot and a seeing eye, being the daughter of the late Frank Carpenter, globe trotter born and author of scores of travel books and articles. But her flair for making geography interesting is all her own.

At present Mr. and Mrs. Huntington are at Journey's End, the charming place at Bluemont, Va., which was Mr. Carpenter's and which came to Mrs. Huntington from her father. But probably they will be in Washington most of the coming winter and it will devolve upon Mrs. Huntington to play hostess to members of the Society of Woman Geographers, several of whom are expected next winter, as they drift into town.

This task is no sinecure, the society's membership ranging from Cambodia to Canada, from Bulgaria to British New Guinea. However, Mrs. Huntington is well equipped for the job, as she speaks French, Italian, German and, with the aid of her husband, even a little Russian. Mrs. Huntington edited the new bulletin of the Society of Woman Geographers, which is just out.

Among the Washington women, who have achieved distinction in their fields and who are members of the society, are Mrs. Charles D. Walcott (Mary Vaux Walcott), glacial geologist, botanist, artist and writer; Mrs. Mitchell Carroll, who is carrying on her late husband's work as an archeologist, and the late Alexander Graham Bell's daughters, Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor and Mrs. David Fairchild, both of whom are students of geography although one specializes on the comparative study of people and the other on hand woven textiles.

Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton, explorer, writer, lecturer and specialist on the sociology of women, is a member and so is Mrs. John Borden, of Chicago, a member of the Borden-Field Museum Alaska-Arctic Expedition, who was Miss Courtney Letts, of Washington.

Is Acting Head of Geographers' Group

Mrs. Mills will return to Long Island on Sunday.

Representative and Mrs. Harry Estep have come from their home in Pittsburgh and are at the Wardman Park Hotel for a time.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lindsay Luke and their small daughter will arrive in town tomorrow from their home in Pennsylvania to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. LeFevre. Mrs. Luke was Miss Hester Anne LeFevre and her daughter is also Hester Anne, the fourth of the name.

Swing, Mrs. Everett Sanders, Mrs. William N. Doak and Miss Blanche Wingo, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Otis Wingo, of Arkansas.

Mrs. William Henry White returned to town yesterday from Buena Vista Springs, Pa., where she spent the month of August, but will leave Washington early next week for Atlantic City. After a week or two there she will go to the Catskill Mountains and on her way home she will spend several weeks at the Weylin Hotel, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Greenleaf will spend the week-end exploring the waters of Southern Maryland on their cruiser.

Mrs. Daniel J. Carr has left town for a motor trip to Toronto and other cities in Canada. Miss Catherine Carr and Miss Helen Carr have returned to the city after a stay at the Pocahontas, Virginia Beach, Va.

Philosopher Passing Last Years in Luxury

Glendale, Aug. 28.—Surrounded by Oriental luxury and living with his own children and grandchildren, Dr. Mirza Assad U. Fareed, noted Persian philosopher, is spending the closing years of more than a century of life at 1580 Hillside in this city.

Dr. Fareed, who on June 5 celebrated his 104th birthday by an hour's airplane ride, was the Persian counselor at the peace conference in Paris in 1919. For many years Dr. Fareed was professor of history at the University of Ispahan, Persia, where he was born in 1823. He is at present living with his son, Dr. Ameen Fareed, at his Glendale home, the garden of which has been transformed into a veritable bower of East Indian splendor.

Switzerland Electrified; Leading World Power

Geneva, Aug. 28.—Switzerland leads all the countries of the world in utilizing her hydroelectric resources, according to offical records compiled for the government. Seventy-four per cent of her available water power is harnessed as compared with Germany and Italy, where a little more than half their available forces are utilized.

On the other hand, if electrification is measured on a basis of population, Norway leads with an annual production of 2,859 kilowatt hours per head. Switzerland's consumption is 1,001 kilowatt hours per person, while Sweden, with 459 kilowatt hours, Austria with 236 kilowatt hours, and Italy with 203 kilowatt hours per inhabitant follow.

Women Fight With Hose As Police Don Slickers

Glendale, Calif., Aug. 28.—Maybe it was an argument or perhaps it was only the heat that prompted Mrs. Raymond W. Leet and Mrs. Albert L. Foster, neighbors to turn their garden hoses on one another.

By the time police arrived the contestants were operating in a ring of interested spectators who were allowing them plenty of room for their aquatic battle.

The battle raged unchecked until the police donned slickers, southwesters and hip boots, when the shock troops went into action and brought hostilities to a close.

French Envoy Has Reception For Lawyers

Dance Precedes Function at Embassy; Go to Mount Vernon.

A reception at the French Embassy last night came as a brilliant climax to the three day round of festivities for members of the British and French law societies, who have been in town as guests of the American Bar Association and who will leave today to visit Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York before sailing homeward. The host at this pleasant fete was M. Jules Henry, Counselor of the Embassy, who is Charge d'Affaires of France in the absence of the Ambassador, M. Paul Claudel.

Several hundred guests, mostly official or representative of Washington's legal fraternity, attended the reception and enjoyed the opportunity to meet the distinguished visitors from France, England, Scotland, Ireland and Canada. M. Henry received alone, but members of the embassy staff were on hand to assist in looking after the comfort of the guests. There was music through the evening and a buffet supper was served from flower decked tables.

Before the reception M. Henry was host at dinner, entertaining the members of the French delegation to the Bar Association conference. Guests from many other dinner parties came later to the French Embassy fete, including those who had attended the dinner given by the Federal Bar Association for a large group of the foreign visitors. This was held in the garden restaurant of the Carlton Hotel, with 150 guests in attendance. Numerous other dinner parties were given last evening for smaller groups, among those who were hosts being Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Taliaferro, Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Bright and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ash.

Pilgrimage was made to Mount Vernon yesterday afternoon aboard the S. S. Porpoise, placed at the disposal of the Bar Association for the cruise by the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Charles Francis Adams, and at the home of the first President the visitors were given a ceremonial welcome. Several luncheon parties preceded the trip to Mount Vernon.

Sons Are Important Wedding Functionaries.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. J. Garvin Peters, of Washington, and Col. Joseph Hyde Pratt, of Chapel Hill, N. C., which took place yesterday at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Edward B. Whitman, in the Green Spring Valley near Baltimore. Only relatives and a few close friends attended the ceremony.

Mr. Horace W. Peters gave his mother in marriage and Col. Pratt had as best man his son, Mr. Joseph Hyde Pratt, jr.

Mrs. Peters was formerly Miss Harriet White, daughter of Mrs. Horace White and the late Mr. White of the Green Spring Valley.

Col. Pratt served in the late war as colonel of the 105th Engineers, 30th Division, A. E. F., and was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal. Prior to the war he was director of the North Carolina State Department of Conservation and professor of economic geology at the University of North Carolina.

Mrs. William Sherman Walker will start tomorrow for a ten-day trip to Rhode Island.

Signora Guiseppe Brambilla, who is making a series of visits at Newport, is now the guest of Mrs. Scoville Treadwell at Court End. The widow of a distinguished Italian diplomat, Signora Brambilla, who was Miss Julia Meyer, makes her home in Rome, but she returns to her native land every summer to visit her mother, Mrs. George von Lengerke Meyer, at Hamilton, Mass. Signora Brambilla's late father was once United States Ambassador to Italy and held successively two Cabinet portfolios.

Lieut. Col. T. F. Bernard, Field Artillery, U. S. A., and his daughters, the Misses Frances and Alice Bernard, are staying with Col. Bernard's sister, Mrs. W. C. Babcock, at Soldiers' Home, while Mrs. Bernard is at Walter Reed Hospital recovering from a serious operation.

Lieut. and Mrs. R. R. Ratill are making the Cavalier Hotel their home while in Washington. Lieut. Ratill has been transferred from duty at Camp Custer, Mich., to the Army Medical School in this city and expects to be here for several months.

Mrs. M. de Clare Berry is in her apartment at 2115 P street for a few days, having come to town from her country place, Claremont, in the Bradley Hills, where she has been spending the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sweetser, of Switzerland, are visiting at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Senor Don Fernando Gonzales Arnao, retiring First Secretary of the Spanish Embassy, and Senora de Arnao have given up their apartment and are at Wardman Park Hotel for a short stay. Senor Arnao has been promoted to the rank of minister plenipotentiary and will go shortly to Ecuador as his country's minister.

Senor Don George de la Barra, First Secretary of the Brazilian Embassy, is at the Ambassador Hotel in New York for a short stay.

Davises Visiting at Vanderbilt Villa.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gassaway Davis, who have been visiting in the West, will arrive in Newport today to spend the month of September with Mrs. Davis' parents, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, at their villa. They are making the trip from New York on Gen. Vanderbilt's yacht. Mr. Davis, whose marriage to Miss Grace Vanderbilt roused no end of interest in Washington, is the son of Mrs. Armstead Davis, of Washington.

Women's Bar Of City Host At Luncheon

Lawyers of Fair Sex Who Are Visiting America Entertained.

As a graceful gesture of welcome to the small group of woman lawyers in Washington as guests of the Bar Association, the Women's Bar Association of the District of Columbia gave a luncheon yesterday at the Willard, which was attended by some 75 guests—all women. The group honored at this happy event included Miss Mercy Ashworth, Mrs. Florence Ravenagy, Miss Sarah Moshkowits and Miss Dorothy Scott Stokes, all British barristers, and Mlle. Suzanne Blum, of France.

Replying to welcoming speeches, these guests of honor paid high tribute to what woman has achieved in the law in the United States and called attention to the fact that this was the first time the feminine voice had been heard in all the flood of oratory to which the Bar Association's guests had been obliged to listen. Incidentally, the ladies seemed to have better "closing facilities" than the men, there being no need of enforcing the one-minute limit on addresses at the luncheon.

Miss Mary M. Connelly is president of the Women's Bar Association and Mrs. Allen Spencer Mussey honorary president. Judge Mary O'Toole presided in happy fashion and among the Washington women present, most of whom made brief talks, were Miss Pearl McCall and Miss Rebecca Greathouse, Assistant United States Attorneys; Judge Kathryn Sellers, Dr. Emma Wold, Miss Annabel Matthews, Mrs. Ellen Yost, Miss Mabel Owen, Miss Katherine Pike, Miss Elizabeth Harris, Helena Doocy Reed, Miss Claire Grayson, Miss Grace Eddy, Miss Annabel Hinderliter, Miss Mabel Hiatt and Mrs. Lucian Greathouse.

REVISION OF TREATY TALK HIT BY SPEAKER

AID FOR LEGUIA URGED

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 28 (A.P.). "Nothing at present can create more nervousness and friction between nations of Europe than inconsiderate talk of treaty revision," said Dr. Paul Mantoux, director of the School of higher International Studies at Geneva, in an address at the Institute of Politics tonight.

Dr. Mantoux, who was the official interpreter for Clemenceau, Orlando, Lloyd George and Wilson at the Versailles Peace Conference, said that the reason for the "signs of insecurity which exist in France and other countries," is the "present distribution of territories and of armed forces."

This distribution he termed "artificial."

Aid for Leguia Urged.

A suggestion that the American Government act to protect the life of Augusto B. Leguia, deposed president of Peru, was advanced by Prof. Jesse S. Reeves, of the University of Michigan at the round table on Pan-American problems today.

He declared that such action would be "out of respect for and appreciation of a man who, in spite of his faults, accomplished more for development of Peru during his eleven years in office than is to be found in any similar period of its history."

He said that since we would be acting upon a humanitarian motive, "it is not likely that the tender of our good offices would be construed as an act of intervention."

In the round table conference on limitations of armaments, Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, chief of staff of the United States fleet, said that the United States should join the League of Nations "as the only logical means of taking a positive action toward the stabilization of world peace."

Features of Covenant.

Preventive and security provisions of the League covenant are its most important features, he said, and "these features have been obscured and their importance discredited in public opinion by the League's insistence upon disarmament as to most immediate and urgent undertaking."

He pointed to the achievements of limitation of armaments at the Washington and London conferences as forming "the most potent influence working toward the preservation of peace and future reduction of armaments."

Yusuke Tsurumi, former member of the Japanese Imperial Diet, told members of the round table conference on the Far Eastern situation that there "is no reason why the three major naval powers can not work out a new concord in which a new China policy should be formulated," if the growing desire of the new democracy of Japan is clearly understood. "For Japan's own existence as well as for the peace of the world, this concerted action is essential," he declared.

REVIVAL OF ISLAND PLANT LIFE SOUGHT

U. S. Government Is Trying to Rehabilitate Lonely Spot in Pacific.

ONCE GUANO STATION

Honolulu, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Laysan Island, a lonely spot in the Pacific, about 1,000 miles northwest of Honolulu, is the scene this summer of an experiment by the United States Government in rehabilitation.

Dr. Gerrit P. Wilder, of Honolulu, under authority of the United States Department of Agriculture, is trying to grow grass, trees, flowers, shrubs and plants on Laysan, to which the Coast and Geodetic Survey vessel Pioneer took him late in July.

Guano Beds Worked Out.

Laysan Island formerly had extensive guano beds, but these were worked out more than a decade ago. Commercial fertilizers from South America and the cost of handling the low-grade guano made the Laysan trade no longer profitable. So the guano station on the lonely islet was abandoned and the regular trips of supply schooners to Honolulu were discontinued.

Left at Laysan were only a fast growing family of rabbits that soon virtually denuded the island of its scant vegetation, while the wild Pacific winds heaped sand dunes over the roots of the herbage.

Plants Taken in Boxes.

Dr. Wilder hopes, however, that Laysan can be transformed into a well-vegetated island. Plants and grass suitable to its coral soil were taken in boxes on the Pioneer.

Two officers, two men, a cook and Dr. Wilder landed at Laysan and started work. They are sheltered in tents, and every ounce of their provisions, including water, must be carried ashore.

The Pioneer will cruise on her scientific voyage among the reefs and shoals of the northwest islands, always within 100 miles of Laysan, and will bring back the landing party about the end of August.

California Town Has More Boys Than Girls

Ventura, Calif., Aug. 28.—Ventura continues its record of being a boys' community.

City Clerk Ruth Meilandt reported that of the 40 babies born here during July 22 were boys, as against 18 girls. For the seven months in 1930 the score stands 132 boys and 109 girls, or, tabulating the record for four years, here is now the sexes line up:

For 1927, 203 boys and 111 girls; 1928, 166 boys and 165 girls; 1929, 221 boys and 176 girls; 1930 to date, 132 boys and 109 girls. Totals, 732 boys and 561 girls. Some difference! Thirty-two per cent more boys than girls. Who can explain it?

Drought Prevents Fair.

Bedford, Va., Aug. 28 (Special).—The Forest Community Fair will not be held this fall on account of the severe and continued drought. The types of products which are usually shown at this fair are not only scarce, but of inferior quality, and the members of the club which sponsors this annual exhibit are anxious to hold the fair to the high standard which it has attained.

ARGENTINA IN FEAR OF ARMED REVOLT

Heavy Guard Placed About President as Minister Warns of Outbreak.

Plata garrison. All of these orders, according to LaPrensa, were issued by Gov. Crovetto after a meeting held in the president's house.

President Goes Sleepless.

One officer and ten soldiers of the presidential escort are manning the machine gun battery on the palace roof.

Today's La Nacion said there was unusual activity at police headquarters and that the chief of police and many high officers remained at their desks all night. The minister of war visited police headquarters at midnight.

La Nacion also said that contrary to his custom President Irigoyen remained awake all night and that two of his ministers and the Mayor of Buenos Aires were with him until after 2 a. m. Gen. Elias Alvarez, chief of the first military zone, also visited the president.

Promises Extra Session.

Growth of public feeling against the failure of the Argentine Congress to get to work was the burden of Dr. de la Campa's warning.

In reply the president was quoted as promising to call an extraordinary session of Congress on September 8. The regular session ends this week.

Important party conferences were held at the president's private residnce this morning. Early in the afternoon he went from his home to the palace accompanied by a heavy guard.

It is reported that members of the cabinet met at the palace without the president in the morning. The developments of the session were kept secret.

The afternoon newspapers say that Irigoyen received military and police officers as well as cabinet ministers at his home last night.

Workingman's Friend.

The president, often called "Argentina's powerful man of the people," has held a remarkably strong personal position in Argentine life. He is the silent as well as the strong leader of the southern republic. He gives few or no interviews, has for some years lived practically retired from the social side of public life and has a reputation of being a friend to the working classes.

The telephone employes' strike, which took out only about one-tenth of the company's workers, failed even to interrupt local service.

All St. Kilda's Inhabitants Removed From Lonely Isle

British Cruiser Aids Steamer in Taking 35 Persons and Their Live Stock From Treeless Rock in Ocean; Wild Sheep Drove Left Behind.

Glasgow, Scotland, Aug. 28 (A.P.). The last phase of the evacuation of the lonely island of St. Kilda took place tonight. The bleak place where people have lived only to suffer diseases and starve was bereft of inhabitants for the first time in a thousand years.

Early today the cruiser Hairbell, which the government designated to transport the islanders to their new homes on the mainland, dropped anchor close to the steamer Dunara Castle, which arrived the day before.

Then the islanders, with their live stock and household goods, were taken to the boats. Five hundred and ninety cattle and sheep were driven into the water and made to swim to teh vessels, where they were hauled aboard. Hundrds of sheep, too wild to catch, were left behind.

The Earl of Cassalis, who owns the island, was responsible for the evacuation and said he never again would permit its settlement. Eighty years ago there were more than 100 St. Kildans, but now they have dwindled to 35 because of hardship and isolation. They lived in a primitive fashion, without trains and motor cars. There are no trees on the island. It was equally devoid of cats, rats and horses.

DUDE RANCHING IS $1,000,000 GAME

Tenderfoot Now Is King of Western Country; Most Patrons Are Girls.

128 NOW IN OPERATION

Special to The Washington Post.

Minneapolis, Aug. 28.—Time was when an Easterner arrived at a ranch out in Montana or Wyoming, the cowboys grinned and said, "Here comes another tenderfoot. Let's ride him!" And the tenderfoot nursed the effects of the ride for many days.

Now, the tenderfoot, better known as the dude, is king of the West.

And he is rightly so. The business of dude ranching, at which Billy the Kid and his followers would have shuddered, is a million dollar industry today. T. Joe Cahill, executive secretary of the Dude Ranchers Association, with offices in Billings, Mont., stopped off in Minneapolis to announce that 128 dude ranches are now operating in Montana and Wyoming alone.

Change in Ten Minutes.

The association he represents takes upon itself the novel task of converting Easterners into woolly Westerners with gallon hats, chaps and red kerchiefs ten minutes after they have stopped off a train.

Each summer, from all parts of the country, come men, women and children who want to be Westerners.

Travelers arriving by train are known as dudes and those traveling by automobile are called cage brushers.

"Sixty per cent of our visitors are dudeens or dudettes, as we call the girls," Mr. Cahill said. "These girls come from college, from Hollywood, from offices and from luxurious homes—all wanting to be cowgirls for a month or so."

Change Chiffons for Overalls.

"When we meet them at the train," he continued, "they are all dressed in chiffons, with high heels and dainty hats. But ten minutes later they're out on the plains, dressed in overalls, heavy boots and a big hat. And that's the way they stay until they go home."

But the girls aren't the only ones who spend their summers at the numerous dude ranches that now mark the new West, according to Mr. Cahill. Boys from grade school, who want to be "reg'lar cowboys," college boys who intend to return to their campuses with tales of how they threw a steer, elderly women who tramp through the wilderness, and staid business men who spend their days on horseback and their evenings listening to the stock market quotations—they all are Westerners at heart.

Like to Be Called Dudes.

"The dude doesn't object to being called a dude," Mr. Cahill said. "There was a time when he did resent it, but now he demands the title as his right and is proud of it."

Dude ranches, Mr. Cahill said, started accidentally in 1904. A few young men from Pittsburgh thought it would be good fun to buy a ranch and try their hand at cowpunching. Before long, all their friends began to join them as guests for the summer. The new owners thought they might as well make some money out of their ranch, so they began to charge. Instead of decreasing the number of visitors, this increased them. The result was that many of the old cowpunchers whose ranches were sinking into oblivion, went into the business. And today the dude ranch is as much a part of the West as Billy the Kid was in the old days.

Some of the ranches are run by women. They take care of hundreds of visitors during the summer months and run the ranch alone during the winter.

SIX MONTHS' TERMS GIVEN INDIA LEADERS

New Congress Working Group Named to Supplant Men Arrested.

MADRAS OUTLAWS BODY

New Delhi, India, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—The conflict of authority on one hand and passive resistance on the other was resumed in India today.

Word from Madras said that province, following the lead of Delhi yesterday, had today declared the working committee of the all-India national congress an unlawful association, while the six members of the working committee arrested here when the ban went into effect yesterday were sentenced today to terms of six months simple imprisonment each.

Several other provinces have banned the working committee, adopting this action so they can move against agitators if new disorders occur.

Meanwhile, the Delhi Nationalists countered by naming a new working committee, while leaders of the Bombay government called for volunteers to assemble on the Esplanade Maidan Sunday despite an ordinance forbidding it. Such meetings were banned early in the summer by the chief magistrate, who said he feared their effect on native troops quartered nearby and police broke up several large demonstrations to enforce the order.

FLIER'S SAFETY AID CAN "HEAR" LIGHT

The Neon waves, he explained, could not be detected at a great distance from an airport, so that pilots would have to rely on radio compasses for guidance en route, but that the signals could be caught over the landing field at altitudes of 2,000 feet or more.

"Something of this sort," Maj. Doolittle said after the demonstration, "which would allow airplanes to keep schedules in all kinds of weather is imperative to the complete success of air transportation."

Mr. Hanson termed the development an "aerial block signal system" and said that it would be operated on extremely short or ultra-long wave, thus assuring no interference to regular radio channel work.

To him it represented the latest refinement of research started in 1914, much of which remained secret because of the World War, when he demonstrated in Pomona, Calif., how it was possible to communicate by wireless telephone to the ground from an airplane.

He said that the new developments was not only useful as a fog landing aid but could be utilized to warn pilots flying in fog of the proximity of other aircraft.

For this phase, he explained, Neon lights would be placed on the planes themselves, operating under standard frequency, and the stream of electrons intercepted by the pilots' instruments in other craft in the vicinity.

Cooperating with Mr. Hanson in the work were scientists of the G. R. S.-Devry Laboratories here, who installed a stop-and-go light at Curtiss-Reynolds Airport for the sky traffic of the national air races.

PERU'S NEW LEADER LIFTS SIEGE STATE

Administration Begins to Organize; Will Oust Old Officials.

TACNA QUERY IS STILLED

Lima, Peru, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—The state of siege declared here following the outbreak of the revolt last Friday, which has resulted in the installation of Lieut. Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro as head of the new government, was lifted tonight.

The new administration today began to reorganize the government, intending to oust those officials who were adherents of the former president, now lying ill aboard the cruiser Almirante Grau in Callao. Business was resumed and Lima presented its normal atmosphere.

Col. Ernesto Montague, foreign secretary, informed the Associated Press that the new government did not intend to reopen the Tacna-Arica question, which for so many years embroiled Peru with Chile and was only recently settled.

MODERNIZED TURK WOOS IN OLD WAYS

BRIDE GIVES TROUSSEAU

Special to The Washington Post.

Constantinople, Aug. 28.—Although Mustapha Kemal is rapidly Westernizing his country, several old customs still prevail.

Two months ago Niemt Hansem, mother of two daughters, received the visit of the marieuse, as they call the woman to whom the marriage negotiations are intrusted.

"I have come to propose a charming husband for your daughter Samime," she said; in the end Niemt Hansem sent for her daughter.

"Samime," she explained, "this good lady has come to demand your hand in marriage for Nobin Bey."

"But, mother," the girl feebly protested, "I only saw him yesterday at Leqla's tea party, and he never spoke to me."

"Ah, my child, he burns with the fire of love for you, and he is a diplomat and needs no wealth. By Allah! You can not refuse him."

Samime, 28, shingled and dressed in the latest fashion, meekly submitted to her mother's wishes.

A few days later she wrote to tell a friend of her engagement and asked the friend to give her some ideas for her trousseau.

The friend found her quite cheerful and reported that her fiance was fairly nice, although not a bit like her ideal.

"To my ideal man I would have given my love, heart and soul," she said simply. "But to Nehib I will give sound affection."

"You see," she added, "I am giving him just the ordinary things that every girl has to give. That is to say, just the house linen, silver, crockery, furniture and his trousseau."

"His what?" the friend faltered.

Lady Simon Describes India's Plight on Radio

Lady John Allesbrook Simon, wife of the head of Great Britain's Indian Statuary Commission, who concluded a visit to Washington last night, spoke yesterday morning over the National Broadcasting System on the subject of slavery.

Lady Simon told of the work that is now being done to abolish these remnants of human bondage. "What would Abraham Lincoln have said," she asked in her talk, "if he were told that there still exist in remote parts of the world at least five or six millions of human beings who are bought and sold like cattle and belong to their owners as mere chattels?"

CLAIM TO ANDREE'S BODY DENIED WOMAN

Sweden Insists Explorer's Father Was Buried in Native Land.

SHIP URGED TO HASTEN

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Conflicting reports as to the burial place of the father of Solomon August Andree, polar explorer, today surrounded the efforts of purported Pittsburgh relatives to have the explorer's body brought here for burial.

Andree attempted a balloon flight to the North Pole 33 years ago. His body, preserved by arctic ice, was found recently.

Miss Helen Gardner, a granddaughter of Mrs. H. W. Andree, of Pittsburgh, said her grandmother was a sister-in-law of the explorer and on that claim of relationship had asked the Swedish Consulate in Washington and the Navy Department to aid her in having Andree's body brought here. She said the explorer's father, Jacob Andree, died and was buried here in 1885. The American-Swedish News Exchange in Stockholm, however, saying the Pittsburgh claim apparently was based on mistaken identity, reported that the explorer's father was Claes Georg Andree, who died and was buried in his native city of Grenna, Sweden, in 1871.

Claims Mistaken Identity.

Stockholm, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—The American-Swedish News Exchange says that the father of S. A. Andree, the polar explorer, died and was buried in his native town of Grenna in south-central Sweden. His name was Claes Georg Andree, and he was born in 1807 and died in Grenna in 1871.

The agency says that the claims of Mrs. Clara Andree, of Pittsburgh, Pa., to the Andree diary and relics on the ground that she is the widow of a half-brother of Andree, are thought to be based on mistaken identities.

The mother of Andree, to whom he was particularly attached, died in 1897, a few weeks before he set out on his final attempt to reach the North Pole by air. There were five sons and two daughters. The explorer was the third son.

Bratvaag Told to Hurry.

Oslo, Norway, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Scandinavian radio stations today began calling at intervals to the sealer Bratvaag, Dr. Horn's expedition ship, to hasten to Norway with the bodies of Solomon August Andree and his polar companions, found in the Arctic after 33 years.

The calls, taking an emergency form, are directing the little steamer to make all speed to avoid danger to its precious cargo which might make difficult the unfolding to the world of the tragic story of the Andree polar balloon flight.

Swift storms, with the possibility of disaster to the vessel in the Arctic and the loss forever of the story of Andree's fate as chronicled in the diary found with the bodies on White Island, prompted the Norwegian and Swedish governments and scientists to cooperate in dealing with the situation.

Altoona Judge Faces Trial in His Own Court

Altoona, Pa., Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Judge Marion D. Patterson of the Blair County courts faces the novelty of being tried in his own court. The charge is "refusal to show his driver's and owner's license cards" while operating his automobile.

Judge Patterson was arrested by State highway patrolmen. He said today he had shown the cards to one officer, but when a second patrolman asked to see them, he wanted to know "what the occasion was." Thereupon, he said, he was notified he was under arrest. The judge waived a hearing and furnished bail for trial before a visiting judge in his own court.

CRISIS IN CABINET HALTED BY SUMMER

MAY COME IN OCTOBER

Madrid, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Summer vacations are taken very seriously in Spain. If they interfere with business or politics, or even a cabinet crisis—well, that's just too bad for business or politics or the cabinet crisis.

A cabinet change had been expected here for some time, and Gen. Berenguer, the premier, came out of a cabinet meeting one night when the rumors were particularly persistent.

"Oh, there's nothing new," he said to the waiting reporters. He mopped his forehead. "Pretty hot, isn't it? No, there's nothing new."

"How about this cabinet crisis?"

"Oh, yes. There's been talk about that, hasn't there? Well, I'll tell you. The cabinet decided that instead of having a crisis we will go on our summer vacations, which is both more agreeable and practical during the hot weather."

South American Lizard in Michigan

Found in Garage, It Is Killed; How It Got There Mystery.

Special to The Washington Post.

Flint, Mich., Aug. 28.—Carmen Pearson is a hero in his neighborhood and H. J. Wheater, biology instructor at Flint Central High, has added a rare specimen to his collection of reptiles as the result of an encounter which Pearson had with a large lizard.

Pearson said he was at work in his garage when he was attracted by a sound like that of the clucking of a hen. He turned about and saw the lizard, about 2 feet long, with a 10-inch tail making rapidly for him. Pearson fled to the opposite end of the garage and seized a rake. He struck at the reptile which was caught in the rake breaking off about 4 inches of the tail. The lizard then crawled into a hole under the corner of the garage and Pearson ran into the house and got a .22-caliber rifle. He returned and shot the reptile.

Pearson summoned Prof. Wheater, who said the lizard is of the "Eyed" type never known in Michigan, but common in South American countries. How the reptile got into the neighborhood is not known.

Chinese Film Fans Like Theme Songs

Publisher Copies Music Sheets, Translates and Sells Them.

Special Cable Dispatch.

Shanghai, Aug. 28.—The American "talkies" have speeded the Americanization of the Orient in an entirely new direction. Chinese theater audiences, accustomed for centuries to music produced by a primitive orchestra equipped with one-string fiddles and some miscellaneous tin pans, have suddenly evinced an overwhelming desire for "theme song" music similar to that which accompanies the new American talking pictures. And wherever there is a demand, a supply is not long in forthcoming.

An enterprising Chinese publisher in Shanghai, unhindered by copyright laws, has amassed a fortune in a relatively brief period of time by producing American "theme songs" on wholesale order.

As soon as the new "talkie" films with the accompanying music arrive in Shanghai, he obtains a copy of the music sheets. A clever translator puts the English words into Chinese characters and these are printed directly on the original copy of the song. Then the entire sheet, Chinese translation as well as the original music and English text, is lithographed and copies turned out by the thousands.

"My appetite was poor—I had lost weight—felt run-down. Now feel fine."

Miss Lottie Bell Pulliam, Knoxville, Tenn., writes:

"My appetite was poor. I had lost weight—was nervous and could not sleep well at night. In my rundown condition even my joints ached. I took seven large size bottles of S.S.S. It greatly improved my condition. My appetite picked up. My weight was restored and I now feel fine—in fact, I feel like a new person. S.S.S. is a splendid blood tonic and I recommend it to my friends. My mother also took S.S.S. and it renewed her strength."

S.S.S. is the Tonic that is daily helping thousands of weak, rundown, nervous people regain their strength and charm

MORE red-blood-cells and of the right quality! That's the answer to a rundown condition. You need them to fight infection and disease. The way to regain them is to take S.S.S.—the tonic that will help Nature build up and enrich your blood. Then your appetite will pick up. Your skin will clear up. Your whole body will be strengthened, invigorated!

Don't wait until it is too late to correct a rundown condition. When your red-blood-cells are only 80% you are NOT yourself—60% is dangerous.

Take S.S.S. before each meal. Its successful record of over 100 years in building red-cells in the blood is a guarantee of satisfaction. Get the large size bottle. At all drug stores. © S.S.S. Co.

How to recognize a low blood count

Fatigue without any apparent cause, sluggishness, loss of appetite, loss of body weight, paleness, boils and pimples are outstanding symptoms of a LOW RED-BLOOD-CELL COUNT. The red-cells are your body builders. They carry nourishment to every part of the body. Also, they remove impurities from the tissues. When your red-cells drop to 80 per cent of normal strength, you haven't the proper number of workers to keep you "fit." 80 per cent of normal is dangerous. S.S.S.—the great blood tonic—stimulates the blood-building organs to supply the necessary red-cells. Your appetite picks up, your body is strengthened—you feel like yourself again!

JAMES E. JEWEL, 83, NEW G. A. R. LEADER

ENTERED COMBAT AT 17

Cincinnati, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—James E. Jewel, born on an Ohio farm in 1847 and now a lawyer, stock breeder and farmer at Fort Morgan, Iowa, stands tonight where Gen. Ulysses S. Grant stood in 1865—at the head of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Union veterans of the Civil War elected Mr. Jewel commander-in-chief as their 64th encampment drew to a close today. He succeeded Edwin J. Foster, of Worcester, Mass. His election occurred on the first ballot when Kansas switched from its favorite son, Harding Merrill, of Wichita, and Illinois followed suit. Mr. Jewel received 243 votes, Merrill 43, Samuel P. Town, of Philadelphia, the assistant quartermaster general and custodian, 191; Charles Nason, Portland, Me., senior vice commander-in-chief, 14, and Smith Stimmell, of Fargo, N. Dak., last survivor of Lincoln's mounted bodyguard, ten votes.

The new commander was born on a farm five miles west of Germantown, Ohio, near Dayton, and his family emigrated to Iowa when he was 6. He enlisted in the Twenty-seventh Iowa Infantry at the age of 17 and fought at the battles of Nashville and Fort Blakely. He later moved to Colorado, joined the G. A. R. in 1879, served as commander of the Department of Colorado and Wyoming in 1921 and 1922 and was unanimously chosen senior vice commander of the National G. A. R. at the Denver encampment in 1928.

Jacob Secrist, of Cincinnati, former commander of the Ohio Department of the G. A. R., was elected senior vice commander in chief, and Charles H. Lewis, of Pawtucket, R. I., junior vice commander in chief.

The veterans spent the afternoon at an amusement park, their labors ended, while their six allied organizations continued to hold business meetings and elect officers. Tomorrow the encampment will end with a pilgrimage up the Ohio River to Point Pleasant, Ohio, birthplace of Gen. Grant. The former President's grandson, Lieut. Col. Ulysses S. Grant III, will be guest of honor and officer of the day.

Mrs. Margaret Grandle, Pittsburgh, Kans., was elected president of the Ladies of the G. A. R., succeeding Cora M. Rowling. Mrs. Ella Berkemeier, Akron, Ohio, was elected senior vice commander. Ella Schweitzer, of the Wisconsin department, was chosen commander in chief of the Daughters Union Veterans, and Zella Robinson, Michigan, was elected vice commander.

The veterans voted condemnation of the impersonation of Abraham Lincoln by Charles Edward Bull, of Hollywood, Calif., who, the resolution said, claims to be a clergyman. Bull gave several presentations at the request of the local G. A. R., which said he was a former judge and did not pretend to be a clergyman.

Sons of President Like Plane Trowel

Herbert Hoover, Jr., Trained Flier; Allan Enjoys First Flight.

(Associated Press.)

Sons of the White House, in their trips from coast to coast, are causing changes in the usual ordered routine of the Executive Mansion from time to time.

Herbert oHover, jr., uses a plane for most of his journeys between California and Washington.

Now Allan, too, has taken up flight. He recently went to California by plane. Mrs. Hoover arose before daybreak and accompanied him to the field. Only a few milk wagons were astir as the shining White House car glided down the cement drive.

The younger son of the President had two causes for elation. It was his first long journey by air, and it marked his release from the factory grind in New Jersey, where he had been working as part of his training in the Harvard School of Business. Prior to the trip Allan enjoyed a few days with his parents at the Presidents camp on the Rapidan.

Zone Governor to Ask $12,000,000 for Canal

New Orleans, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Col. Harry Burgess, governor of the Panama Canal Zone, arrived today on his way to Washington to ask the Budget Bureau for $9,000,000 for running expense of the canal and $3,000,000 for improvements.

The canal, he said, was operating at only half capacity, handling 30,000,000 tons annually with a capacity of 60,000,000 tons. "We look for a decrease of about $1,000,000 in canal tolls this coming fiscal year and then every indication is that traffic will start to climb," he said. "This present fiscal year should see us climb to the heights of prosperity." Before going to Washington he will visit friends in Dallas and Houston, Tex.

Police Trying in Vain To Pick Stolen Fishes

Special to The Washington Post.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Some culprit with a mania for stealing tropical fishes has disrupted the McKeesport police department.

Last night in walked Ralph C. Walker to report six of his finest specimens stolen. Then the trouble started. How to distinguish a stolen fish from another was what upset everybody, frayed nerves and strained friendships. All last night they poured over fish lore.

"This here book tells the difference between the loricariichthys microdon and the serasalmo rhombeus," ventured one patrolman looking up from a stack of books.

"Aw, how do we know its them kind of fish?" retorted another.

"Fishes—don't say fish," snapped the captain.

CHANEY, CHARACTER FILM ACTOR, BURIED

"Laugh, Clown, Laugh," Movie Theme Song, Played by Musicians.

WIDOW IS HYSTERICAL

Los Angeles, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Lon Chaney, who started life as a clown and died at the height of his career as one of the screen's most celebrated character actors, was laid to rest today in the Forest Lawn Cemetery, Glendale. The final chapter in the life story of "the man of a thousand faces" reached dramatic heights, perhaps above those in the film stories that made him famous.

The climax of the drama came when Lieut. Col. H. S. Dyar, United States Marine Corps chaplain, his simple eulogy completed, stepped back from the silver, flower-banked casket and violin and organ began softly the strains of "Laugh, Clown, Laugh"—the title and theme song of one of Chaney's most successful pictures.

The widow, Mrs. Hazel Chaney, to whom Chaney's last request had been to have his set music played at the funeral, collapsed, weeping hysterically. Tears welled in the eyes of friends of Chaney, in attendance. They included men and women whose names are known wherever films are seen, officers of the Marine Corps and down and outers of pictures and other professions, whom Chaney had befriended.

Weeping, at the head of the casket in the midst of the Marine Corps guard of honor, was Sergt. Frank McClouskey, honored for his war exploits with 76 medals. McClouskey, who sells newspapers on Catalina Island, owes his ability to walk to Chaney, who contributed funds for McClouskey's successful operation.

POLICE SAY SPOUSE SHOT PRETTY KILLER

Prosecutor Also Sure Former Mrs. Kirkwood Died by Bullet Man Fired.

HUSBAND HELD SUICIDE

New York, Aug. 28 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—District Attorney George E. Brower declared himself satisfied today that Mrs. Frances Kirkwood Van Clief, the pretty, pouting blonde, who was acquitted two years ago of killing her second husband, was herself killed by her third, Eugene Van Clief.

The two bodies were found Wednesday night in the rooming house Mrs. Van Clief conducted at 412 Putnam avenue, Brooklyn. Because a revolver with four discharged cartridges lay near her hand, police thought Mrs. Van Clief had killed her husband and then committed suicide. Assistant Medical Examiner Gregory Robilard believed, however, that Van Clief did the shooting, ending with a bullet through his own heart.

Moreover, Capt. John J. Ryan said today police had learned definitely that the .38-caliber revolver found with the bodies belonged to Van Clief.

After she was acquitted of killing Dr. Glenn Kirkwood, young veterinarian six years her junior, the then Mrs. Kirkwood declared she was "through" with men, liquor, parties and all the other things which had led to that tragedy. In supposed stories of her life written for newspapers, Mrs. Kirkwood admitted she could not help being "tormented" by jealousy and talked about the "evil pursuit" that dogged her steps and the "cards being stacked against me."

Her own parents announced her marriage to Van Clief last October. She was then 34.

POLICE MOVING JOB COSTS EXCEED BIDS

ROBB LAUNCHES CHECK

When the United States Bureau of Efficiency learned recently that the low bid submitted by a private contractor for moving the Police Department out of the District Building was $500, it offered to do the job for $160, using trucks and men from various Government departments.

The Bureau of Efficiency got the job, but now District officials are wondering if it would not have been wiser to have let one of the private bidders have the contract. Already the work has cost the District more than the low bid of $500, and the end, it appears, is not yet. And the moving, supposed to have been completed by 8 o'clock last Monday morning, was still progressing steadily last night.

Probably the greatest obstacle to prevent completion of the work on time, and which also sent the cost soaring, was that in the advertisement on which the private bidders and the Bureau of Efficiency figured. No mention was made of several truckloads of lost or stolen property which had been accumulating throughout the ages as the Police Department held it for possible claim by rightful owners.

Another discrepancy between the advertised specifications and the actual work to be done, it was revealed, was that in listing the property to be moved, a large safe was overlooked, making four safes to be moved when only three were advertised.

Assistant Engineer Commissioner H. L. Robb, under whose jurisdiction the work comes, now is tracing back in an attempt to fix responsibility. Whether any difficulty may arise when it comes to paying the increased charges was not known yesterday.

Maj. Robb said that the specifications on which the advertisements were based were drawn up before he took over his present position, and that in his opinion if the work had been given to one of the private bidders, additional payment would have been necessary over the contract price to compensate the movers for the extra and unlisted property.

MERGER STATEMENT DENIED BY CARRY CO.

BANK GROUP WILL MEET

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Although officials of the Carry Ice Cream Co. of this city deny that negotiations have concluded, news dispatches last night from Chicago, headquarters of Beatrice Creamery Co., announced the latter had acquired the local company and Maryland Creamery Co., of Baltimore. Officials of the Carry company said that terms of the transaction, whether cash or exchange of stock, had not been decided and that if the company was sold, it would continue to operate under local management.

Dispatches stated, further that application will be made to the New York Stock Exchange to list 19,057 additional shares of preferred and 58,648 additional shares of common stock in connection with these and other acquisitions.

The Carry Ice Cream Co. was established May 18, 1918, to manufacture ice cream and ice, serving Washington and nearby Maryland and Virginia territory. Its plant and headquarters are located at Thirteenth and D streets southeast. Officers of the company are Ernest H. Daniel, president; Samuel C. Redmond, vice president and secretary; Walter E. Carter, treasurer. These with Charles E. Pledger form the board of directors.

Beatrice Creamery Data.

Beatrice Creamery Co. is one of the largest butter making concerns in the world and the third largest in the making of dairy products, it having expanded into ice and ice cream manufacture in recent years. Its oldest subsidiary was organized in 1909 and the company has grown steadily.

The common stock of the company is listed on the New York Stock Exchange and sold around 84 yesterday. It is paying $4 cash dividends annually and net earnings available for common stock for the six months ended August 31 will be approximately $6 per share, showing a considerable increase above 1929. The company's preferred stock is also listed on the New York Stock Exchange and is selling around 106.

Telephone operating revenues for July amounted to $1,173,561, the report of operations of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Baltimore, just filed with the Maryland Public Service Commission, shows. Expenses during the month were $947,382, making net revenues $226,179. This was a decrease of $48,184 from the net revenues for June.

Albert E. Pierce Co. Aid.

Charles Emmett Bradley, formerly an official in the corporate research department of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York and assistant trade commissioner in Washington, has been elected vice president of Albert E. Pierce & Co., national investment security organization. Mr. Bradley joined the organization in June, 1929, and has been in charge of national wholesale distribution with offices in Chicago. In this capacity he will be succeeded by A. R. Hughes, assisted by R. H. Ennis.

The women's committee of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, will hold its annual dinner, September 6, at the Roosevelt Hotel, all bank women of Washington being invited to attend. The dinner will be at 6:30 o'clock and will be preceded by a half hour's reception.

Miss Mildred C. Woodcock, American Security & Trust Co., chairman of the committee, will preside and Mrs. Anne T. Renshaw, president of the Anne Tillery School of Expression, is the principal speaker, others being Raymond B. Dickey, instructor in law for the local institute; T. Hunton Leith, Security Savings & Commercial Bank, institution national councilman; Frank M. Perley, American Security & Trust Co., president of Washington Chapter, and Aubrey O. Dooley, Federal-American National Bank, first vice president and chairman of the educational committee.

Auditor Raymond G. Marx, Riggs National Bank, will return from his vacational trip along the Jersey coast after Labor Day.

Vice President William M. Seay, of the Federal-American Co., is back at his desk after a three weeks' vacation at Virginia Beach and nearby points.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

In making inquiries address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Martin Motor Truck Corporation.

C. L. C.—Will you kindly send information and whether it would be wise to buy options on shares in Martin Motor Truck Corporation? Also I would like to know where I could get books on investments, or if there are schools teaching that subject?

Answer—Martin Motor Truck Corporation is only in the formative stage. If you are desirous of taking a gambling chance through purchasing this stock, you may do so, but until such time as the company becomes a going concern and some definite information is available as to earnings, assets, and liabilities and actual or prospective dividends, you will never buy options on this stock on the advice or recommendation of the writer of this column.

Standard books on investments include the "Fundamentals of Investment," by Rice; "The Work of Wall Street," by Pratt, and "The Stock Market," by Huebner. They may be bought from Barron's Book Department, 32 Kilby street, Boston, Mass. The Alexander Hamilton Institute, of New York City, conducts a course on investments.

Photomaton.

A. B.—Kindly give me some facts about Photomaton stock.

Answer—Company has an authorized and outstanding issue of $425,000 8 per cent cumulative preferred stock, $100 par, 20,000 shares of class "A" no-par stock and 211,250 shares class "B," no-par, authorized. Preferred has preference as to assets and cumulative dividends up to $8 per annum, over both class "A" and class "B" stocks. No dividends paid on any of the issues to date. Accumulated unpaid preferred dividends on May 1, 1930, amounted to $136,239. Class "A" has sole voting power. Class "B" stock listed on New York Produce Exchange. Regarded as extremely speculative. Company reported for year ended December 31, 1929, net loss of $413,562, or a deficit of $1.59 a share on combined class "A" and "B" common stock, compared with net income of $497,447, or $2.41 a share in 1928.

Warner Bros. Pictures.

H. C. G.—Will you be good enough to give me what information you can on Warner Bros. Pictures? It seems that the passing of their dividend was a great surprise to everyone, as the consensus of opinion is that it was not necessary. I own quite a number of shares of this company.

Answer—Program of new financing lately announced will furnish sufficient funds to provide for liquidation of bank indebtedness, and for completion of company's expansion program. Approximately $15,100,000 will be secured through sale to common stockholders of one additional share at $30 for each four shares held. Offering has been underwritten by Hayden, Stone & Co. and Goldman, Sachs & Co., while a representative of the former banking house has been added to the board.

It seems probable that, in order to insure successful placement of the new shares, concerted action will be taken to advance the price of the stock to a level above that currently prevailing. While obviously a speculation of the most radical type, retention for the time being of commitments entered into at higher levels would appear to be advisable.

Electric Storage Battery pays $5 annually instead of $2.50, which the types made it appear in this column recently.

American Steel Foundries.

J. W.—Please advise me about American Steel Foundries, selling at $37 and paying $3. Is it a safe and sound investment?

Answer—With earnings lower so far in 1930 and some of company's business dependent upon depressed divisions of railroad equipment industry, full year returns, it is anticipated, will make relatively poor comparison with 1929. Therefore there appears little justification for near-term price advance of wide scope in the common, and it would appear to be advisable to delay new purchases. Present holdings offer high yield and the probability of eventual appreciation, consequently retention seems advisable for any one willing to disregard near-term fluctuations. In any event, stock is not to be regarded as a "safe and sound" investment.

Parmelee Transportation.

I. J.—I bought 100 shares of Parmelee Transportation at $12. What is the outlook for this company?

Answer—Net income of Parmelee Transportation Co. for year ended December 31, 1929, was $1,262,400, equal to $4.40 per common share. These figures compared with $1,061,768, or $3.54 a share, in 1928. Earnings for six months of 1930 not yet published. Net before taxes for first quarter was $173,657, or 58 cents per share. Recently stated that earnings for June quarter, when published, will equal those for March quarter.

However, company on August 15, last, cut the dividend to 5 cents a share monthly, comparing with former payment of 12½ cents monthly, or $1.50 per year. On this account, stock looks much less attractive, from an investment viewpoint than previously.

ASK US THE WAY

If you would like information about the best route to follow on any trip you plan this autumn, write "Standard" Touring Service, 26 Broadway, New York City. Tell us the point you want to reach and we shall furnish you with the latest information on road conditions. There is no cost, and no obligation.

DRIVING'S no fun on crowded highways with a sluggish motor. On a happy holiday you want to be able to slow down and speed up at will—without a lot of gear shifting. You want to be able to take the lead and hold it . . . you want extra reserves of knockless power to meet any emergency of the road.

That's why over Labor Day—or on any other day—you want your tank filled with ESSO, the Giant Power Fuel. ESSO will take the "labor" out of Labor Day driving because it's more powerful than any gasoline . . . gives no knocks . . . and puts new pep in any motor.

There is no substitute for ESSO. The most powerful motor fuel sold in Washington, its base stock is the finest, especially-prepared gasoline that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey can manufacture. To that finer stock is added Ethyl fluid, the most effective anti-knock ingredient known to science.

Fill your tank with ESSO and your motor will tell you, in the first five minutes of driving, why a recent traffic check proved that ESSO is more popular than any other motor fuel or gasoline sold in Washington—"Standard" dealers and service stations everywhere.

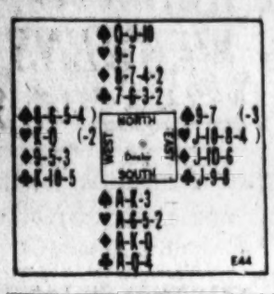
WORK ON BRIDGE

CONTRACT BRIDGE.

Many players are apt to become restive and try for slams by bidding four No Trumps on powerful hands which do not count the 27 which is conservatively required for bids of that character. It is better to occasionally make a slam without bidding for it, than to bid four and make only three-odd.

A corerspondent recently sent me the following South hand and asked me if I would bid four with it; upon receiving my answer in the negative, he sent me the distribution of the 52 cards:



He said that he held the South hand; and with a count of 26, every suit safely stopped by its Ace, and four cards in the only suit not stopped at least twice, he was sorely tempted, but remembered the precept "not less than 27" and was glad that he did when he saw his dummy and found that although it was not a "bust" it required his best ingenuity to make even a nine-trick contract.

West led a Spade; and Declarer, appreciating that a dummy entry would be more valuable later on, overtook with South's Ace. He saw that successful Club finesse would give him the game; and that a less probable 3—3 division of the adverse Diamonds would produce the same result. It could do not harm to find out first whether the Diamonds would break, so he led three rounds of that suit and was relieved when both adversaries followed each time. North then was placed in the lead with a Spade to cash his thirteenth Diamond and the fate of the Club finesse became quite immaterial.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

Heat and cold, light, and loss or absorption of moisture have other effects on food spoilage besides those connected with growth of bacteria, yeasts and molds.

Many fresh fruits ripen so rapidly, even at ordinary room temperature, that they soon pass their prime, as everybody knows from the mealy apples often found in the dish on the sideboard. Nuts and other fat foods become rancid more quickly if stored in a warm, rather than a cool, place. On the other hand, temperatures as low as freezing ruins both texture and flavor of some foods. Frozen potatoes, for example, are watery and have an unpleasant sweetish flavor.

Light also hastens the ripening of fresh fruit and vegetables. Various canned and dried products seem to keep their attractive color longer in light-proof containers, and the quality of table oils and fats is affected by light as well as heat.

Too great circulation of air over foods may injure them. For instance, lettuce and other succulent vegetables become wilted by evaporation, while crackers and cookies lose their crispness by absorbing moisture from the air. In other words, moist foods often need to be protected from drying out and dry foods from becoming moist. The wrappers and containers in which many commercial food products are marketed prevent such changes very effectively and suggest good practices to the housekeeper.

Fan Interprets the Mode

Paris, Aug. 28.

IN a room full of brilliantly attired women it is often the extremely plain woman who dares to achieve distinction with a startling simplicity.

The above sentence is very potent, as Liza would say, so I hope that you will read it again!

For instance, do you remember a certain summer season a few years ago that was totally absent of black? Well, the reason that black did not stay out of the mode was because clever women were quick to seize the opportunity to be outstanding by wearing black evening gowns in gatherings of otherwise brilliantly gowned women.

The same general principle applies to the winter mode. Never indeed is the woman who will achieve a striking simplicity in her evening gowns, in the face of lavishness of color, materials and trimmings.

* * * *

For instance, this lovely and quite unadorned gown from Doucet-Doullet that I have sketched for you today proves that the simplicity of today is not the so-called simplicity of yesterday—which was just plainness. Today's simplicity is sophisticated, and intricate, depending entirely upon clever workmanship and flattering silhouette for its smartness. Can't you just see a lovely lady being outstanding in this white crepe dress?

* * * *

Skirts, skirts, skirts—all kinds and sizes, because you know, they are smart for little sister of 3 or mamma of 30. And they don't change in style—maybe a bit longer here, a bit shorter another year, but in general they are always just of one of these types; wrap-around, pleated, straight, tucked or circular, better send that stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet that tells you how to make them, because you will find this information helpful and economical in the long run for yourself or the kiddies.

* * * *

Would you like to pay $8,000 for a piece of lace 6 inches long and 3 inches wide? No foolin', that has been done, and none other than a dealer of rare old lace told me about it the other day. And she said that it wasn't anything unusual, either.

* * * *

Combs are in again, combs and barrettes, of a discreet kind, of course. And when they are crystal placques set in gold or silver, and match the necklace—well, see for yourself in today's sketch!

* * * *

Of course, you're looking in each Sunday's Washington Post for the Dare weekly fashion letter. You shouldn't miss a number.

A Goofus Song Without Words

And warble from notes or by ear,
She can twitter and carol and also intone
But never a note can you hear.

And her songs are blithesome and light,
As with her left hand she carries the tune
While strumming the bass with her right!

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me of a good spray to use on linden tree that is being ruined by caterpillars.

THOMAS T. I.

Remove and destroy all the caterpillars then spray the entire tree with arsenate of lead, using three pounds to 50 gallons of water.

Please tell me the name of the perennial of which I am inclosing a leaf. It has deep red flowers.

MRS. O. F. K.

Your plant is a mullein pink (lychnis coronaria).

Please tell me how to raise a young pandanus plant. I have tried placing a cutting in damp sand, fresh soil and have even planted them in pots with old plants, but in the course of a few days they always die.

MARION G. T.

The sprouts taken off pandanus plants should root readily if placed in sand kept damp. I am sure that your failure in rooting these plants may have been due to allowing the sand to become dry. Sand, being porous, requires more frequent watering than ordinary soil. The sprout while rooting should be protected from the intense rays of the sun.

Please tell me whether there is any truth in the theory that if a plant fails it dies. My fern fell and is now dying.

K. L. M.

It all depends on the extent of the injury the plant receives. If the fronds are broken, they must be removed. The same applies to the condition of the root. If it was broken and torn apart by the sharp edges of the pot, better repot it at once. Of course, all plants that fall do not die.

Will you please tell me what causes peony buds to shrivel up after they have become a good size.

MRS. F. H.

Lack of moisture, too much manure about the roots, late frosts which kill the buds while they are small, lack of potash or phosphorous in the soil or too much shade may all be reasons why peonies fail to mature their buds.

Please tell me how much seed it will require to seed a plot 10 by 25 feet.

GEORGE F. T.

Grass seed is usually sown at the rate of 1 pound to each 250 or 300 square feet of lawn area. If you intend to add clover to the mixture, use one pound of grass seed to one-half pound of white clover. Sow clover separately, as it is much heavier than the grass seed.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

What Today Means to You

"VIRGO."

IF August 29 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8 a. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m.

The "handwriting on the wall" for this date indicates prosperity, and general good luck. Games of chance will terminate well. None too good for the disposition, and hasty words may be spoken, which will end a long-time friendship.

The children born on this August 29 will absorb knowledge easily, especially of countries and people, exploration and such things. They will intensely dislike mathematics. They will have uneven temperaments and fiery tempers.

You do not possess a brilliant mind, but one which may perhaps carry you further. You do not grab your knowledge on the run; it comes to you slowly through hard individual effort. You are never able to skip steps, but must plod along step by step from the foundation to the top. You can not take things in in their entirety, but must analyze almost every atom of their contents. As a result you truly master things, and your knowledge, like most hard-earned possessions, is priceless, and something that will stick with you always. The world will express an appreciation for your thoroughness in more ways than one. You will win your way slowly but surely, and you will experience but few setbacks. You never dive into things until you are sure of yourself.

You have a great deal of diplomacy, a great amount of modesty, good nerve and self-control. You do not talk too much, and your words are not dipped in gall or acid. You dislike very few people and very few people dislike you. You have a great deal of endurance and patience, and you are hopeful and cheerful even in time of adversity. Your greatest sorrows are usually suffered in silence, although you ought for your own relief to be a little more confiding with those who are willing and anxious to ease your loads. You dislike putting yourself under obligation to any one, and for this reason you fight alone.

Successful people born August 29:

2—George F. Hoar, senator.
3—Abby Hutchinson, singer.
4—Albert Bartholome, sculptor.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Marriage Without Love.

DEAR Miss McDonald: I read your valued articles each evening and now I come to you, too, for some advice. I wish you would please tell me exactly what you would do to cope with a situation like mine.

I have been unhappily married for the past four years to a man with a violent temper who uses the most vile language to me and whose personal habits are beyond endurance.

To more fully inform you of some of his ways, I will relate as follows: If he drops anything on the floor he will not stoop to pick it up. It will remain there until I pick it up. Soiled linen is always left lying on the floor for me to pick up. Match sticks and ashes are always thrown on the floor wherever he may be. Shaving brush is always left full of soap, standing on the sink.

I have this practically every day in the week. When I remonstrate with him about his personal habits he uses abusive language to me, telling me to pick it up myself, saying that is all I have to do. Do you think a wife should be picking up things like this every day in the week? I am not a "crab," but I do think a man should have some respect for himself in this regard.

If I go to my aunt's house over night, when I return the house is so upset you would think a cyclone struck it. I have tried leaving things on the floor just where he left them, but in the end I will have to pick them up. He has even struck me, causing bruises on my arm, &c., and in a violent temper, has broken dishes, windows and hurled knives. I think, and others do, too, that there must be something wrong with him. Time and time again, I have wanted to leave him because in time my health will surely be ruined. What shall I do? I hate to tell my people he even struck me. They would surely want me to leave him.

Of course, I do not love him. I even threatened to get a warrant out for him, but he tells me to go ahead. He does not seem to fear God or man. He makes a good living and I have everything in the way of worldly goods, but often wonder if it is worth sticking to him just for that.

Would you try curing him or shall I leave him or is there some way I could teach him a lesson the next time he strikes me? I can not stand this life. It drives me crazy. I never was used to anything like that. And striking a woman. He should be punished for that, but tell me, Miss McDonald, what to do. I have not asked anyone's advice about anything, as no one really knows what I go through.

Please pardon this long letter, and I thank you so much for your help.

E. B.

Why live with a man you do not love? Even where a man is normal and the soul of chivalry, marriage without love is a strain too great for the average woman of any sensibility to endure. And when the man is a rampaging animal, it seems entirely beyond belief that a woman would consider a lifetime of such misery. Untidiness about the house is characteristic of most men. But the habit of striking women is something quite different. You will never change this man and you will never love him. As the years go on you will find your entire nature changing if you continue to live in this atmosphere of constant hatred and strife. It is degrading and demoralizing and destructive. Material things count for little when purchased at such a price.

Your parents are going to know some time, so you might as well tell them now. Go home for a visit on the occasion of the next scene. Tell him you will return when he has become civilized. If it works, and he improves, and, if you can endure marriage without love, very well. But loveless marriage coupled with abuse is just about too much. And now while you are still young is the time to take a stand. Take a firm one. Decent behavior or divorce with alimony for cause.

This column is for you! Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help those who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

USE FOR HOT BATHS.

THE use of hot baths for the cure of certain chronic diseases has been more or less popular since the legendary days of Aesculapius. In spite of disappointments, many who have put their trust in them and, in the face of some adverse reports by physicians and scientists—shall we say other scientists—hot baths prosper. Not all of them, nor all the crime, but the measure of confidence they have always enjoyed is pretty good evidence of virtues of some kind.

For a while all the values were attributed to the minerals in the waters. The next vogue was to ascribe them to radioactivity. Just now the tendency is to place stress on heat. Others attribute the virtues of mineral springs to the diet and hygiene used at the more successful resorts.

Occasionally, effort is made to improvise mineral baths. A method called Transcutan, used in at least one place in Great Britain, is as follows: The brine consists of 34 per cent mineral salts, 17 per cent essential oils, 1 per cent camphor and 48 per cent water. The mineral salts mixture is chloride of lime, 80.5 parts; magnesium chloride, 6.6 parts; strontium chloride, 2.1 parts; potassium chloride, 2.6 parts; potassbromide, 2.3 parts; lithium chloride, 1.1 parts. The mixture of essential oils includes oil of turpentine, oil of wintergreen, bornyl acetate.

The bather greases the more delicate parts of the body with vaseline petrolatum or other grease to prevent these oils from burning. He enters a tub of water that has been heated to 96 degrees Fahrenheit. Within 10 minutes enough hot water is added to bring the bath water to a temperature ranging between 102 and 106 degrees. Then the mineral salts, oil and brine are poured on top of the bath water. The water is not stirred. The bather stays in this hot brine bath 10 minutes. He is then wrapped in a large bath towel, without being first dried, and is put to bed to sweat for two hours. During this time cold compresses are kept on his head. At the end of this period he has a thorough rubdown and then goes to bed for 6 hours. These baths are taken twice a week for about one month.

CAUSE OF ROUNDWORMS.

Mrs. M. A. writes: What is the cause and cure of roundworms?

REPLY.

Infestation with roundworms results from swallowing the eggs. They are carried into the mouth on foods and by means of soiled fingers.

The best medicine for roundworms is chenopodium or worm seed. The oil is used. Most worm medicines contain worm seed, but the amount they contain is small.

WHAT ENDOCARDITIS IS.

E. M. writes:

1. What is endocarditis?

2. Is it true that a young person having this particular kind of heart trouble rarely lives over 23 or 24 years?

3. Is it necessary to remain in bed until the heart again beats in a normal manner?

4. Does this type of heart disease, in its worst stage, cause paralysis and feeblemindedness?

REPLY.

1. Inflammation of the lining of the heart.

2. There are different kinds of endocarditis. Some people who have had endocarditis with resultant lesions live to reach ripe old age. A person with heart leak should adopt a plan of living and follow it.

3. In some cases it is.

4. No.

RASH ON SHOULDER BLADES.

Mrs F M. M writes: I am bothered with a breaking out of my shoulder blades, which first appears like the effect of chiggers. These places continue to itch after a doctor them, and they do not get better. More seem to keep coming. My neighbor says I have nettle rash and that I will have to diet.

REPLY.

There is no particular similarity between the eruption of nettle rash and that due to chiggers. I think you will find some cause other than your diet.

NATS' VICTORY CUTS MACKS' LEAD TO 6 1-2 GAMES

Westbrook Pegler Says

POLO GROUNDS, New York, Aug. 27.—The Robins and the Giants set up a great commotion at the Polo Grounds this afternoon, playing a loose, enthusiastic game of ball in their competition for second place and the ultimate perquisites of second place, payable when the Cubs and Athletics have divided the principal fund of the world's series ball. Uncle Wilbert Robinson sat in the pit on the visitors' side of the grounds directing his comedians with merry quips and funny jokes, and John McGraw lurked in his den on the opposite side, in person, exerting his master mind on a baffling succession of problems, as the Robins won the performance, 8 to 7.

Somewhat after the manner of Charlie Chaplin tripping a glowering cop into a tub of mortar in the early days of the movies, the Robins, working strictly in that straight-faced seriousness which heightens the humor of their work, assaulted Carl Hubbell, a skinny left-handed pitcher, in the sixth inning and took the lead by scoring four runs before a man was out. For the next twenty minutes the clowns went crazy, brandishing their slapsticks in wild hilarity and two more of Mr. McGraw's pitchers were needed to still the uproar before the Robins left off with a total of seven runs for the period.

Love of Laughter Draws 25,000.

This victory and the one of the day before promoted the Brooklyn team to second place again, and Uncle Wilbert's complaint that his chaps weren't hitting was silenced by the clatter of ten blows, including home runs by Glenn Wright and Mickey Finn, a triple by Babe Herman, the outfielder who learned to catch fly balls in self-defense, and a double by Wright.

The love of laughter attracted some 25,000 patrons to the ball park and they staggered off the scene holding their sides after a perfect afternoon at the laughing pit of 1930. Mr. McGraw's team played straight and dignified throughout the act and though it was comedy to the patrons the experience seemed to be a pain in the neck to them.

Escaped Brooklynites Deliver Cheer.

There was a sizable deputation of escaped Brooklynites benched in the stand behind the third base line, who announced themselves at the very start of the show with one stanza of the Brooklyn alma mater song, a long, rolling boo. This was their salute to the Giants as the resident athletes, in their slightly soiled cream suits, went out to man their stations.

The press box was adorned by the presence of some gala members, including "Honest John" Heydler, the president of the league; "Square Eddie" Forbes, the prize-fight referee; a lanky man of sallow and cynical countenance, "Al Figurehead" Elias, the statistician, and Will Carey, president of the Garden Corporation. It is customary whenever any member of the Garden Corporation rides by the Polo Grounds in a hack to announce the sale of the club to the soulless monopoly of the prize-fighting trade, but Mr. Carey assumed no proprietary manners and did not seem to be counting the houser

Babe Herman Poses For Upper Case O.

Dazzy Vance, swollen with maturity and major-league victuals, puffed his way through the nine innings for the Robins, allowing nine hits, although there was a spell there in the third inning, before the climax of fun, when the Giants gave him a bit of a start. In this bit of action Hughie Critz hit an ostentatious triple to the wall in left center field, scoring on Leach's sacrifice fly, and two other parties, Lindstrom and Ott, hit home runs into the right-field baleony with the bases nude.

"Babe" Herman, the boy who poses as is for the part of the open-mouthed outfielder in all the illustrations for humorous baseball fiction in the magazines, stood with his back to the wall gaping with all the expression of an upper-case O as these shots went arching into the stfucture where the patrons fought for them in the traditional way.

LOTT-DOEG CONQUER TILDEN-HUNTER; GAIN FINAL AFTER 5 SETS

Tilden Weakens After Bearing Brunt of Team's Attack.

By W. R. KING.

BROOKLINE, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—History repeated itself here today when hard-driving George Lott and Johnny Doeg, defending champions in the national doubles tennis tourney, gained the final round again by defeating those wise old veterans, "Big Bill" Tilden and Frank Hunter, in a sparkling five-set match, 3—6, 6—3, 6—2, 9—11, 6—2.

Tilden used up most of his stamina in rushing to Hunter's rescue during the first four sets and when the finals rolled around he was so tired the champions blasted both of his services and clinched the victory early.

Lott and Doeg must upset Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, Davis Cup doubles team, on Saturday to retain their title, for those Wimbledon champions gained the last bracket with a four-set victory over another Texas-New Jersey combination, Berkley Bell and Gregory Mangin, by scores of 6—8, 6—4, 6—4, 6—3.

Lott's Errors Lose First Set.

The defending champions' struggle with Tilden and Hunter was an extremely tense affair. All four players were in top form and their thrilling rallies and well-executed strokings delighted the largest gallery of the week.

The veterans took the first set when Lott erred enough in the eighth game to drop his service. The second was almost the same, but it was Hunter who cracked in the fatal eighth. Three sharp placements against Tilden and his double fault broke that seven-times national champion's service in the first game of the third set and when Hunter lost his in the seventh, Lott and Doeg took command of the match.

Ferrell Gains 23d Win In Defeat of Chisox

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Wesley Ferrell, young right-hander, today ran his victory string for the season to 23 and his consecutive wins to 12 as the Cleveland Indians won a 10-5 decision over Chicago White Sox in the third game of the series. Chicago won a double-header yesterday.

Ferrell was hit freely at times, allowing a dozen hits, but his mates gave him a five-run lead in the first inning and kept on pecking away at the offerings of Walsh, who succeeded Dutch Henry in the opening round, to make the victory certain. Eddie Morgan's twenty-fifth home run of the season was among Cleveland's 18 hits.

Georgetown Second to 3-Time Champion Team.

ROSEDALE PLAYGROUND girls asserted their supremacy in track and field for the third consecutive year yesterday when they won the municipal playground championship meet and The Washington Post Cup at the Plaza track by a margin of 14 points over the Georgetown Team.

Rosedale's victory marked a sweep of the city championship meets for the Northeast playground for the Rosedale Boys Team on Tuesday won the title meet and The Post's Cup, emblematic of the boys' championship.

The Rosedale squad scored 30 points yesterday to 26 for Georgetown. Twenty-six teams scored points in the meet, which was the largest ever held for girls in the District.

Rufina King Wins Two Events.

Rufina King, of the Rosedale Team, was the only participant to win more than one first place in the individual events. Miss King, competing in the unlimited class, was first in the 60-yard dash and also first in the basketball throw. In the latter event she tossed the leather 70 feet and 9 inches and in the dash her time was 7 3-5 seconds.

Anna Wilner, of Georgetown, competing in the 115-pound class quoit throw, tossed the synthetic discus 99 feet and 5 inches. In the 100-pound class running high jump Katherine Wools, of Burroughs, leaped 4 feet and 5 inches, an exceptional height for a lassie of her size.

Two new events were tried yesterday and were well received by the youngsters. One was "jump the brook," virtually a running broad jump and little Naomi Sawyer, a 70-pounder of the Peabody Team, made the exceptional mark of 11 feet and 1-inch to win the event.

The other new attraction on the program was a flag race. In this event the contestants had to take a flag from one bottle and place it in another, somewhat on the order of a potato race. Each contestant had to transfer 6 flags and then return to the starting point, the first to reach there being the winner. It was a colorful and entertaining feature.

150 Face Starter In One Race.

Miss Maude N. Parker, director of Girls' activities, conducted the meet and acted as starter. In the 70-pound class, 40-yard dash, Miss Parker was faced with 150 youngsters which she had to divide into 30 heats. One hundred and twenty-five girls competed in the 85-pound class 50-yard dash. Play-

Cards Beat Cubs in 20th, 8-7, After 4 Hours 10 Mins.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Andy High's single with Taylor Douthit on second base as dusk settled over Wrigley Field this evening, gave the St. Louis Cardinals an 8-to-7 20-inning victory over the National League Champion Cubs.

The battle was the longest in the major leagues this season and brought to a climax a sizeable list of overtime games for the Cubs. Four hours and ten minutes of baseball left the members of both teams almost exhausted and even Kiki Cuyler walked in from left field at the finish, breaking his custom of sprinting for the Cub dugout.

With one out in the twentieth, Douthit singled and went to second as Sparky Adams was thrown out. High then caught one of Bob Osborn's pitches for a blazing single to center. Douthit raced home, but High was nailed attempting to stretch his hit into a double.

The Cardinals had the game all won in regulation time until Burleigh Grimes blew up in the seventh when the Cubs scored three times—two runs shy of a tie. Lindsey replaced Grimes in the eighth and three more hits produced the tieing runs and sent the game into extra innings.

Each team scored two in the fifteenth. The victory was the Cardinals' ninth in a row, and trimmed the Cubs' lead over Brooklyn to five games. It also was the league champions' second straight beating.

Nats Farm McLeod To Louisville Club

Jim McLeod, the Nats' rookie infielder, has been farmed to the Louisville Club of the American Association on a 24-hour recall, President Griffith announced last night. Louisville, leading the association, through injuries is short of infielders and informed Griffith that McLeod would be played regularly. The Nat president believes that steady play with a championship club in the minors is more beneficial to the rookie than sitting on the Washington bench.

Football Game Tomorrow Hails Early Start of Boys

BEATING the rest of the football teams of this section, and probably of the entire country, into action by two or three weeks, the Washington Boys' Club 110-pound eleven will meet the Charlottesville (Va.) Fives, 1929 national midget champions, in a game at Charlottesville tomorrow afternoon.

The Washington youngsters have been practicing only since last Tuesday but, according to Mike White, physical director, and Joe Robinson, volunteer coach, will be prepared to give a creditable account of themselves against the famous Charlottesville club.

Today's practice on the field at Third street and Missouri avenue northwest will determine which of the 19 candidates for the Boys' Club team will make the trip. Fifteen will be selected. They will depart tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock in a bus and will commence playing at 2 p. m.

Scheduling of the game resulted from a challenge written ten days ago by Robert Osborn, Fives coach, to Physical Director White. It was immediately accepted, the local squad being eager for a chance to avenge a 20-to-6 defeat suffered at the Virginians' hands last year. The 1929 game was played on August 31.

The Fives went on to win the national 100-pound championship after disposing of the Boys' Club last year. They defeated the Bearcats, of Akron, Ohio, in the deciding game.

The Boys' Club squad will be picked from the following: Backs, George Hollis, Vic Gauzza, Billy Vermillion, P. Grasso, Joe Amin, J. Soo and D. Gevinson; linemen, A. Aldoe, C. Burows, V. Ceccarelli, C. Calamaris, A. Hoofberg, G. Billings, L. Hayman, G. Mario, W. Brady and C. Angelo.

MARBERRY, RECOVERED, AWAITING TURN ON MOUND

Pitching Ace Shows Speed In Test

Nats, Idle Today, to Resume Tomorrow With Yanks.

THE best news which has developed in the Washington camp in many moons was handed out by Pitcher Fred Marberry yesterday. The big Texan, the ace of the Johnson staff, suffered a fractured right wrist in a game in New York nearly a month ago. Although the plaster cast was not removed finally until last Saturday, Marberry pleasantly surprised Skipper Walter Johnson and his mates by taking a turn on the hill in the pregame stick drill and showing plenty of everything.

"Why, I could pitch a game today," said Marberry, but Johnson did not take this remark seriously. "Firpo" showed a flash of his best speed and even tossed a few curves without harm and guarantees to be ready to face the Yankees in the four-game series to be played against them in New York next week.

Marberry has even volunteered to pitch in Monday's Labor Day doubleheader with the Red Sox, but Johnson has vetoed this, not wanting to take any chances. That the big flinger will be back in action next week, however, is assured, which surely is good news, with the Nats now in the thick of a second-place fight and another Western trip just in the offing.

No game is scheduled at Griffith Stadium this afternoon, the New Yorkers drawing their fourth open date of the week, but the two teams meet again here tomorrow and Sunday. "Sad Sam" Jones will face "Ruth and Company" in tomorrow's fracas, with Ed Wells, former Nat southpaw, probably opposing him on the hill.

Keeping up with the times—in fact, stepping a little ahead of their competitors—the Nationals have closed a contract whereby loud speakers will be installed in Griffith Stadium. These not only will be used to keep the cash customers fully advised of all line-up changes, but will provide music before games and between double-headers. An effort is being made to have the "mike" installed in time for Monday's holiday bill with the Boston Red Sox.

Philadelphia is the only park in the circuit now using loud speakers and those contracted for by the Nationals are quite an improvement over those in use in Shibe Park.

"Dutch" Shires Given Tryout.

Manager Walter Johnson is seriously considering "Dutch" Shires for a job, either with the Nationals or with the Chattanooga Lookouts. Like his big brother, Art, "Dutch" is a first baseman, but, also like Art, he claims he is good in any position. Yesterday, he tried out as a shortstop, showing a good arm, but not proving particularly adept there. Johnson plans to try him out as a catcher, as he already has more first basemen than he needs. He throws right-handed and hits left-handed. He looks particularly good as a batter. He is only 19 years of age.

Len, another brother of "The Great Art," also tried out with the Nats recently and President Clark Griffith got him a job with the Clarksburg Club. He is a second baseman and tried out with the Giants last spring, later being made a free agent.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

With two gone in the sixth and Lazzeri on second, Crowder issued his first walk, intentionally passing Dickey so as to give the Nat infielders a play at three of the bases. Chapman, next up, then fanned, being the "General's" second strikeout victim of that inning.

Cronin's bunt in the sixth, on which Pipgras made a two-base error, was perfect and it went as a hit, as a good peg by Pipgras would not have caught him at first. While running at out, Cronin accidentaly stepped on Gehrig's gloved hand as the first baseman was reaching for the low throw, play being stopped while "Columbia Lou" went to the bench to have his wound patched up.

Lary made a nice stop of Cronin's liner ending the "stretch" session, taking the sphere on first bounce just when it appeared that the ball had eluded him.

Cooke fanned for his third time during the game to make the first out in the eighth after the Yanks had molded two markers.

West hustled over toward left to turn in a brilliant catch of Dickey's looper in the eighth.

Resse, up for McEvoy in the ninth, popped to Cronin for the Nat shortfielder's first chance of the game. He ended it with his second one.

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

—Saratoga Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Six 3-year-olds go in the Huron Handicap, and it appears that the track handicapper believes the Glen Riddle Man o' War colt, FULL DRESS, is better than William Ziegler's SPINACH, as he requires FULL DRESS to concede a pound to his chief adversary.

While FULL DRESS has done about all that has been asked of him here, winning three races, defeating BUCKEYE POET in his last start, he has never defeated SPINACH, which seems to be in good form and carrying lower impost than some of his races would show he deserves. At the weights SPINACH looks like a stand-out and is selected to win, and also as the surest winner on the card.

FULL DRESS is the contender, but the Fitzsimmons entry of ERIN and FLAMING are not to be overlooked. ERIN is better than her last race shows, but third will be good enough for her. After GALLANT FOX, QUESTIONNAIRE and GALLANT KNIGHT, SPINACH is about at the head of the list of 3-year-olds and had it not been for his injury in the spring, would no doubt have cut a big figure in the racing of the year. STAR LASSIE and CAPSTONE are outclassed. The Huron is a mile and three-sixteenths.

FIRST RACE—GENIAL HOST ran away before the race in which he was engaged earlier in the week, was badly ridden and then ran second to BOSKY. He is back in the first race, and should win going away. BEAU WRACK should be the contender. WU is perhaps better than the others. GENIAL HOST will be at a close price.

SECOND RACE—The Widener entry of FINITE and SHADY LADY has the call in the second race at six furlongs, but TETRARCHAL on his last race looms a dangerous contender. He has much early speed, and will go along with FINITE at a furious clip under light impost. FINITE is not the best of weight carriers, and has 120 pounds under the conditions of the race. SHADY LADY has much speed, and may save the purse in the final drive for the G. D. Widener stable. Show money lies between BOBASHELA and LOST AGNES.

THIRD RACE—The best 2-year-old fillies in training start in the Wellesley, a condition purse at 5½ furlongs. H. P. Whitney's THAIS, the best juvenile filly shown here, is selected to win. She came from far back to catch YELLOW FLAG in her only start, and won going away 5 furlongs in 1:00 flat. B. R. Bradley's BABA KENNY, impressive winner at Belmont Park, and racing well here, is regarded the contender. CHICSU'S last race was good, and she should win show money over ALLEZ VITE and the others.

FIFTH RACE—RUBY KELLER has the edge on the field in the fifth race, a claiming affair, with BRIGHT RED to beat. ANGRY LASS is next best on form, and will get in the money. CHIEF'S MOUNTAINEER, on his last race, is not entitled to serious consideration.

SIXTH RACE—Maiden 2-year-olds start in the last race. HARLEM has had a hard time winning brackets, although usually being a contender. Her best chance is in the 5½ furlongs dash, where the opposition is less strenuous than in her last when Moreheart simply ran away from her. There is no Moreheart in this race. RUSTICUS has worked well and may garner place money. BARREN HILL should improve off last race.

Entries for the opening day—Monday—at Belmont Park, and for the Manhattan Handicap, to be run Tuesday, will close at Saartoga at 10 o'clock and at Belmont Park at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow.

There was an error in the first announcement of the broadcasting of the Hopeful and the Saratoga Cup Saturday. The broadcasting will begin at 4:45 and the Hopeful will be the fourth race and the Cup the fifth, one-half hour intervening.

A large week-end crowd has begun arriving for the big stakes of the closing day. J. E. Widener has been here several days, having arrived from France. He feels confident of a record meeting at Belmont Park, which opens Monday. He deferred his proposed conference on Miami racing with Frank Bruen until the opening of the Belmont Park season. Mr. Bruen will remain in Saratoga until the end of the week.

TODAY'S GAME.
Pullman vs. D. C. Repair Shop.

THE Tile Setters, champions of the Industrial League, are the first team to score two victories in the week-day titular series as the result of their 8-to-7 defeat of the Naval Hospital Team, representing the Government League, yesterday on the Terminal diamond.

It was the second loss for the Sailors and eliminates them. Naval Hospital notified series officials that it will protest the game as the result of the last play in the ninth inning. Bridges, Naval Hospital, was on third, with two out. He attempted to steal home with what would have been the tying run.

Joe Freschi, Tile pitcher, threw the ball home and Isert, batting for Howk, swung his bat at the ball. Umpire Green ruled that Freschi was not standing on the rubber when he threw to the plate and that the batter had interfered with the catcher. He called the runner out.

Game Marked by 14 Errors.

Whil the game was one of the worst, from a fielding standpoint—fourteen errors being charged—it was one of the most interesting of the series. The Tile Setters had to rally to gain the lead, and Naval Hospital fought an uphill battle in an attempt to tie the score.

Naval Hospital scored two runs in the first inning on singles by Munson and Payne, with two errors and a stolen base aiding. The Sailors made it 4 to 0 in the second with a single by Sams being the only hit. An error, walk and a fielder's choice figured.

The Tile Setters scored three times after two were out in the third. Licalione singled, Cinotti walked and Cinotti walked ashrd4 cmfwyp uldr Freschi singled to fill the bases. The sacks were cleaned when DiNenna, batting for Mastro, dropped a short fly into right field.

An error led to the tying run for the Industrial champs in the fourth. Barry was safe on an error. He stole second and scored on Sartori's single to center.

Tile Setters Take Lead.

In the fifth the Tile Setters took the lead never to be headed. Singles by DiNenna and Parrella and Freschi's walk filled the bases. Garilli was safe and Freschi scored on an error. Barry doubled over the fence to score DiNenna and Parrella and Freschi's walk filled the bases. Garilli was safe and Freschi scored on an error. Barry doubled over the fence to score DiNenna and Parrella. Crews relieved Ingram and stopped the rally.

Cinotti scored a run for the Tile Setters in the sixth. He went to first on an error and kept on to third when Howk threw the ball into centerfield. Cinotti scored on an infield out.

Tying the count in the seventh. Robbins was safe on an error. Payne singled and went to second when Freschi threw passed first. Bridges was safe when Garilli dropped Cinotti's throw, Roberts scoring. On an attempted double steal Bridges was out at second but Payne scored.

LOTT, DOEG ADVANCE TO FINAL OF DOUBLES

times in the fourth set. Many times during this marathon set, which ended when Lott netted three times and double faulted the set point, the champions had Hunter cracking, but Tilden, who reached amazing heights, even for him, several times in this series, came to his rescue with timely placements.

Tilden Dominates Long Set.

Tilden covered all parts of the court during these 30 games, took command of the play when his rivals tried to sharpshoot at his tiring partner, and in so doing, wore himself out just as the match was squared.

The big break came in the first game of the fifth set, when Lott and Doeg launched such a furious attack against Tilden that he cracked badly. From then on his play was unsteady. He dropped his next service, thereby enabling Lott and Doeg to coast easily to the end.

This victory was the third consecutive one that Lott has shared, for in 1928 he teamed with John Hennessey, of Indianapolis, and annexed his first national doubles title when they defeated Gerald Patterson and John Hawks, of Australia. Last year Lott and Doeg became champions by upsetting Bell and his fellow Texan, Louis N. White, the first unseeded pair to reach a national doubles final round.

Bell and Mangin lost because they became unsteady at every vital point of their match with the Davis Cup regulars. Their great mistake was in trying lofty lobs every time they found themselves in a tight place and Van Ryn and Allison generally scored on these soft shots.

Airplane to Dedicate Regatta Course for Middle Atlantics

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 28.—Before the start of the Middle States regatta here on Monday afternoon, under the auspices of the Old Dominion Boat Club, an airplane from the Alexandria Airport will travel up and down the rowing course and as it reaches the front of the Old Dominion Boat Clubhouse a wreath will be dropped by Mangus Bales, general chairman of the regatta committee, officially dedicating the course as the George Washington Memorial 1-mile straightaway rowing course in honor of the Nation's first President.

This plan for the official dedication was decided on last night at a meeting of all committee chairmen. The races, with twelve clubs entered from all Middle Atlantic States, will begin at 1 o'clock. The three wharves in Alexandria—Mutual Ice, Naval Torpedo and Norfolk & Washington Steamboat—have been secured for the citizens to view the contests.

A letter from Lawrence Richey, secretary to President Hoover, was received by President E. E. Carver, of the club, today in which the President states he appreciates the invitation for him and Mrs. Hoover to attend, but because of previous engagements he finds it impossible to view the races.

The Old Dominion Club officials said today that numerous Government officials as well as out-of-town leaders will be here for the occasion.

The Alexandria American Legion Juniors, baseball champions of the State of Virginia, were guests of President Clarke Griffith, of the Washington Club, at today's New York-Washington game. The boys were introduced to the players of both clubs.

On Saturday the Alexandria youngsters will play the Spengler Post Team, of Washington, in the second of a three-game series.

Pete Ball, big righthander with the St. Mary's Celtics, will report to the Boston Red Sox on Monday when they appear in Washington for a series with the Griffs. Ball was notified today by Boston officials to report at the ball park.

The big Arlington boy has been one of the Celtics' best bets this year.

Theodore Beach, manager of the Southern Clerks, has issued a claim to the 5 o'clock baseball title in this city. Beach's club beat the Potterfields today, 7-6. He claims this victory entitles his team to the honors and is willing to play any nine that disputes his club is not the champions.

WASHINGTON TYPOS WIN BY 16-3

Defeat Detroit Nine to Escape Elimination.

Special to The Washington Post.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 28.—The Washington Typos, defending champions in the International Printers' baseball tournament, saved themselves from elimination at Magee Field today when they defeated the heretofore undefeated Detroit Typos by a score of 16 to 3.

Webb, on the mound for the victors, was hit quite freely by Detroit, but managed to tighten up when hits meant runs. He gave the losers twelve blows. The Washington Nine sewed up the game in the seventh inning when it scored five runs.

The defeat of Detroit left only one team still in the unbeaten class, Chicago holding first place with a record of three victories and no losses. Washington, as a result of its triumph, now rests in second place, with three wins and one loss. The big surprise of the tournament was the defeat of Washington by Chicago.

The results of the tournament to date leave Chicago, Washington, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and New York in the running. St. Paul, Cleveland, St. Louis Boston and Indianapolis are out of the competition as a result of suffering two defeats.

PLAYGROUND HONORS TO ROSEDALE

ground directors assisted Miss Parker in running off the events.

Mrs. Susie Root Rhodes, supervisor of playgrounds, was particularly pleased with the large number of small girls in the meet. She personally presented several of the smaller champions with Post medals.

It is possible that the meet yesterday is the last that will ever be held on the Plaza oval, where so many District youngsters have vied for titles in the last seven years. Present plans call for the abandonment of the space as a playground and to turn it into a park. Three citizens associations have passed resolutions requesting that it remain an athletic field, a purpose which it serves so well for playground city-wide events because of its central location.

Next Wednesday Mrs. Ruth Britt, coach of the Rosedale girls' team, and Ben Kail, boys' coach, will tender the champions a banquet at which The Washington Post cup will be officially presented.

Shorey in Tie for Second In Virginia Open Golf Play

Special to The Washington Post.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 28.—Harry Thompson, home bred public links star, with scores of 73-75, dominated the field in the Virginia open golf tournament as the half-way mark of the 72-holes play over the Westwood course was reached today.

The stocky Thompson, playing over a familiar course, gave an exhibition of consistently brilliant golf, and his total of 148 gave him a one-stroke lead over three other outstanding contenders for the championship.

In a triple deadlock for second place were Mel Shorey, carrying the banner of the East Potomac links of Washington; Roland Hancock, the mountain from the Oakmont Club, of Lynchburg, who is defending the crown he won here last year, and an unheralded and unsung entry, Nelson Long, of the Blue Hills Club, of Roanoke.

Shorey, who qualified for the national open here, the boy with the booming tee shot, whose golf prowess is well known around Washington, also did himself proud with his card of 149. Taking 77 strokes in the morning round, Shorey breezed home with a 72 in the afternoon. Par for Westwood is 69.

Hancock whizzed around in 72 in the morning, coming back with a 77. Long posted scores of 74-75.

Charlie Isaacs, Winchester pro and 1928 title holder, went around in 74-77-151. Billy Howell, of Richmond, Middle Atlantic States champion, scored 152, having a 78 and 74. This was the same turned in by his playing partner, Bill Auchterlonie, of Glenwood.

Police Take "Rubber" Game From Prisoners

The District Police Nine won the deciding game of a three-game series from the Lorton, Va., Prison Farm Team yesterday by a 13-7 score. Lorton's starting pitcher showed fine form until the seventh, holding a 7-2 lead. He blew up, however, and before the Police were out seven runs had trickled across the plate. Sine pitched all the way for the Police, but was given ragged support.

The chances of the Police in the annual Firemen game were strengthened yesterday with the return of two players to the line-up. They were Wetherhead, third baseman, who has been ill, and Moffman, regular catcher, who suffered a split finger in a game at Annapolis.

ORANGE BOOSTERS WIN.

Special to The Washington Post.

Orange, Va., Aug. 28.—The Orange County Boosters defeated Culpeper, 7 to 4, yesterday. The Boosters bunched hits in the fourth inning, causing Culpeper to change pitchers, and scored five runs. Culpeper scored two of their four with two out in the ninth inning.

Byrd Smith, pitcher for the Boosters, struck out twelve batters during the game. This victory brought Smith's consecutive wins to six.

JUNIOR GOLF TITLE WON BY BONES

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

ALTHOUGH the Congressional Country Club has 48 junior members, only 11 participated yesterday in the competition for the junior club championship, the event being won by Thomas P. Bones, Jr., with a card of 72—79—151, leading the field by five strokes. James G. Drain, Jr., who won the club's junior championship last year, finished as runner-up with 79—77—156.

The morning round of the new junior champion, totaling 72 strokes, one under the par of the long and difficult course, might well have been envied by a large proportion of the senior members and enabled him to lead the field at its conclusion by seven strokes, a margin of safety which his youthful competitors could not overcome.

Shoots 36 on Outgoing Nine.

Bones was out in 36, even with three putts on the eighth green, and home in the same figures, despite the fact that he three-putted the thirteenth green and drove out of bounds on the fourteenth. However, on the long twelfth hole, 520 yards, he was home with a drive and an iron and after missing his eagle 3 easily scored a birdie 4. Then he scored birdies on the fifteenth, when he ran down an 18-inch putt, and on the sixteenth with a putt of 2 feet. His card:

STOCK SALES DROP; PRICES VARY LITTLE

BROKER LOANS DECLINE

The general price level, as measured by the index of 90 leading shares, ended the day virtually unchanged, the index showing a loss of 1-10 of 1 point. Trading was restricted by the approach of the Labor Day week-end closing, and total sales aggregated only 1,437,210 shares, only about 60 per cent of the previous session's turnover.

Several pool operations that have been dormant for a few weeks were renewed in some of the specialty shares, apparently in an effort to stir up a little interest preparatory to plans for post-holiday activity. The merchandising shares firmed up, under the leadership of Sears-Roebuck, in response to more cheerful trade reports. Most of the pivotal shares were unchanged. While bullish activity was pressed in one handful of shares, bears selected another group to send lower, and the opposing operations showed little interference with each other.

International Telephone Drops.

Bearish operations were facilitated by news developments in a few issues. Report of political disorders in Argentina brought further selling into International Telephone, which sagged to new low under 40, then rallied. There has been considerable real liquidation in this issue, owing to unfavorable earnings estimates. Goodyear was depressed about 5 points to the lowest price in two years on announcement of a 10 per cent wage reduction for sales and office employes. It rallied moderately later. Atlantic Coast Line sagged 2 points to the lowest price since 1924.

The day's news was meager and not of a character to influence the list as a whole. The weekly brokerage loan tabulation, appearing after the close, showed a reduction of $26,000,000 to another new low since 1927. As this further reduction occurred in a week in which the price index showed a gain of 2 points, it was interpreted as indicating that stocks were still passing into strong hands rather than marginal accounts. At $3,102,000,000, brokers loans were about half the total of a year ago.

New York banks placed $58,000,000 in the market, while out-of-town banks and other lenders withdrew more than that, presumably for seasonal commercial purposes, or for investment in fixed income securities providing a better return. The weekly Federal Reserve conditions statements showed little change. Call money remained plentiful at 2 per cent.

Sears-Roebuck Up 4 Points.

Among the day's strong features, Sears-Roebuck gained 4 points, and Delaware & Hudson jumped 6 in a small turnover. Demand for preferred shares probably reflected an overflow of the abundance of funds recently seeking investment in the bond market. Such specialties as McKesport Tinplate, Cutler Hammer, Mack Truck, Mathieson Alkali and Childs gained 2 to nearly 4, and closed about 2 higher. Shares closing up a point or so included Baldwin, Woolworth, Montgomery-Ward and General Electric. United States Steel fluctuated over a 2-point range and closed unchanged.

Commodity markets were largely firm and quiet. Wheat closed steady ⅛ to ¼ of a cent higher, and corn gained about 1 cent. Raw sugar and coffee were firm. Cotton closed practically unchanged.

The recent firmer tone in foreign exchanges resulted in a shipment of $1,000,000 more in gold to Canada. Sterling cables rallied to $4.87. The Brazilian rate was again weak.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Corn values developed notable strength today and helped to rally the wheat market after wheat had again broken the season's bottom-price record. Upturns in corn quotations were associated with a statement from a leading crop authority that the corn trade now has to deal with likelihood of thirteen months' feeding for live stock, instead of a twelve-month feeding year. Big receipts of Canadian and domestic spring wheat were largely responsible for the weakness that wheat values displayed throughout the greater part of the day.

Corn closed firm, ⅝ to 1⅜ cents a bushel net higher. Wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to ⅜ cent up, oats unchanged to ½ cent advance, and provisions unchanged to 7 cents off.

Assertions that the meager corn yield this season will probably have to last thirteen months, in place of the customary twelve, were emphasized by reports that owing scarcity of pasturage the new corn crop is already being used in some sections. It was added that despite poor grazing the prospect is becoming evident that there will be but comparatively few hogs and cattle sold at light weights, and that heavy feeding of live stock will be the rule, with corn and all available cereals utilized. Under such circumstances, strength shown by corn prices became the outstanding grain market feature today, with corn finishing at virtually the top level reached.

General buying of corn developed after an early setback that resulted from wheat-price downturns. The confidence with which purchasers of corn took hold on declines attracted widespread attention, especially as advices current indicated little if any improvement in the corn-crop situation as compared to a month ago. The Iowa official summary in particular was regarded as pessimistic, and there were unofficial reports which were construed in some quarters as indicating that Iowa promises only half a crop. The fact was also noted that no rain of any consequence fell in the corn belt overnight.

Wheat had a generally heavy tone, except just at the close when responding to corn strength. Canadian country marketing of wheat totaled 3,207,000 bushels for 24 hours, against 1,620,000 a year ago. Besides, indications pointed to a larger output of domestic spring wheat than had been looked for, with stocks of wheat rapidly increasing at Minneapolis and Duluth. Many wheat traders were consequently disposed to postpone new buying until after the peak of the Canadian wheat movement is passed. A forecast from a British authority pointed to a world wheat crop this season 224,000,000 larger than last year, if Southern Hemisphere countries continue to be favored with good weather. Oats followed corn rather than wheat.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—September, 88, 87⅛; December, 90⅛@90¼, 92⅛@92⅜; March, 94¼@94½, 97; May, 97⅛@99⅛@99⅜. Corn—September 96½; 99¼; December, 92@92⅛, 94½; March, 94¼, 96½; May, 96, 98⅛.

Provisions were easy, influenced by setbacks in the value of hogs.

BOND MOVEMENT BECOMES UNEASY

Investment Section Holds Recent Firm Course as Other Groups Weaken.

UTILITIES PROVE STEADY

New York, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—The forward movement of the bond market which has continued steadily throughout the week was interrupted today.

An irregular price movement prevailed with prime investment issues steady to firm. A few profited from a strong demand to reach new peaks for the year but the price level as measured by the averages showed some impairment.

The foreign bond list received more attention and such high grade issues as Japan 5½s, and Belgian 7s climbed to new peaks for the year. The prospect of political strife in Argentina unsettled the Latin American list.

Selling in the railroad list affected many issues which have progressed in recent sessions but did not extend to standard investment obligations. Central New England 4s, Central Railroad of New Jersey 5s, Nickel Plate 5½s Cleveland Union Terminal 5s and 4½s, and Oregon Railroad & Navigation 4s reach new highs for the year. Pennsylvania 4½s were very active and firm. Canadian National Railway 4½s, Colorado Southern 4½s, Illinois Central 3½s, M-K-T adjustments 5s A, Missouri Pacific refunding 5s A were among those which sold off.

Utilities were mostly steady to firm. There was heavy trading again in American & Foreign Power 5s, which yielded ½. American Telephone debenture 5s sagged ¼. A feature of the group was the weakness of International Telephone bonds. The debenture 5s reacted 2½; debenture 4½s, 1½, and the convertible 4½s sold off ½ after earlier strength.

Kins Co. Elevator 4s, and Lorillard 7s reached new peaks. Fisk Rubber 8s reacted 2¼. Sugar bonds displayed a better tone. Manati Sugar 7½s rose 2.

Argentine, Brazilian, Bolivian and Uruguayan issues lost ground. Bolivian 7s sagged 4 points. Brazilian 6½s 1. Argentine governments sold off about ½ point each. Peru 6s, which have been weak, were strong. Mexican governments were active and rose 2 and 3 points each.

Cumberland Fair Viewed by 17,000

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Aug 28.—This was Allegany County day at the Cumberland Fair with the Georges Creek territory being represented by a large attendance. Today's crowd was placed at 17,000, which was but 3,000 less than on yesterday, Governor's day, the banner day of the fair.

The dog show, a new feature, was heavily patronized with 134 entries, all owned by local fanciers; it opened today. A dog that attracts much attention is Alex, the first Maryland hound to win the International Fox Hunters Association meet in November, 1927, against 146 select hounds. Chester A. Wolfe and Dr. Frank M. Wilson have a large showing of Red Chow Chows; J. George Smith, Beagles, and R. R. Morton, Pomeranians. The show is under the auspices of the Western Maryland Kennel Club, and is sanctioned by the American Kennel Club.

Mayor Broening, of Baltimore, due here tomorrow, has deferred his visit until Saturday. He will give an address from the judges' stand shortly after noon. After broadcasting an address in the evening, he will be tendered a reception at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Lutheran Camp To Be Dedicated

Cumberland Church Will Conduct Exercises at Site Sunday.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 28.—The summer camp of Trinity Lutheran Church, located on Town Creek, two miles from the National Highway, north of Flintstone on the road to Chaneysville, Pa., will be dedicated next Sunday. It is said to be the first camp in the State to be established by a church. The State Conservation Commission has agreed to stock Town Creek above the camp with small mouth bass.

A picnic for the congregation and its friends has been planned for Labor Day. It is expected that members of the Walther League from Baltimore, Md., and York and Lancaster, Pa., will attend the dedication service and Labor Day picnic.

The Baltimore Walther League members are taking much interest in the development of the camp, which will offer them the opportunity for the enjoyment of a mountain resort within a three hours' driving time.

POLICE GET REPORT OF MOTOR SERVICE TO GAMING RESORT

Practice Is Not Unlawful if Fare Is Not Charged, Inspector Says.

LETTER FROM CALVERT SPURS INVESTIGATION

Corporation Counsel Also to Conduct Inquiry Into Legal Aspects.

Inspector E. W. Brown, of the Traffic Bureau, last night said that he had had no opportunity to go into the matter of patrons of a gambling house just across the District line being taken there in automobiles. It was thought by Charles B. Calvert, Mount Rainier attorney, who is waging a war against the establishment, that this transportation might be illegal.

Inspector Brown said that the practice would not be unlawful if no fare was charged the passengers. If fare were charged, the cars would have to bear H tags and the drivers would need hackers' licenses. A letter from Calvert said he understood that the drivers were armed. This, police officials say, would be a violation of District laws.

It is understood that the drivers of the cars whose local terminals are said to be at Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue and Seventh and F streets are paid weekly by the proprietor of the alleged gambling house.

Calvert's letter is the first movement made in the District toward a suppresion of the operation of the house. A Prince Georges County grand jury investigation of its activities is promised for this fall.

Mr. Calvert's letter was addressed to Maj. Henry G. Pratt, who turned it over to Inspector Brown for a report on the traffic aspects of the matter.

Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride has also been asked to study the legal aspects of the transportation from the District of passengers, even though the service is gratis.

Radio Store Manager Is Defrauded of $8

Thrown off his guard by the prospect of a large sale, the manager of the Cline radio and stationery store yesterday was defrauded of $8. A man entered the radio store and signed a contract for two large sets, which he said he wanted for two barber shops he was opening. At his request the manager drove the man to one of the shops he claimed was his, where the radio man gave him the sum to make change. Apparently the "customer" went into the shop and never came out. At any rate, he was not seen again.

The affair was reported to police by Virgil W. Chapin, bookkeeper for the store, which is at 920 Fourteenth street northwest.

C., chief of the zoological division, Bureau of Animal Husbandry, Department of Agriculture, has been elected president of the American Veterinary Medical Association at its annual convention in Los Angeles, according to Associated Press dispatches.

Other officers include Dr. J. T. Glennon, Newark, vice president, and Dr. M. Jacob, Knoxville, Tenn., treasurer.

Paving Record Set Near White House

West Executive Avenue to Be Opened Today; State Place Tomorrow.

Having completed its first paving job for the Director of Public Buildings and Parks by resurfacing 8,000 square yards of roadway in nine days, the District Highway Department will reopen West Executive avenue to the public at 8 o'clock this morning.

State place, on which work was begun on August 24, will be completed today and opened to traffic tomorrow, it was announced last night by Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, District coordinator. Repaving of West Executive avenue was started on August 19. To complete the jobs in record time, a special quick-drying cement was used. The excavators worked in two shifts, two steam shovels were kept in operation, and a double paving outfit was used.

Both of these thoroughfares, adjoining the White House, are important arteries in the District's traffic system, West Executive avenue running between the Executive Mansion and the State, War and Navy Building south from Pennsylvania avenue, while State place runs from West Executive avenue to Seventeenth street northwest, behind the State, War and Navy Building.

Attorney Appointed In Annulment Suit

Justice Jesse C. Adkins in District Supreme Court yesterday appointed Howard R. Ralph to defend Joseph A. McIntire, of North Capitol street near Hanover street, in a suit for annulment brought against him by his wife, Mrs. Bertha A. McIntire. The action of the court followed McIntire's failure to answer the wife's bill of complaint.

Mrs. McIntire in her suit filed several months ago declared she had been on a drinking party last November 7 and on the following day awakened to find she was married. She said she remembered none of the details of the ceremony and since then had never lived with the man.

Man Under $5,000 Bail On Bad Check Charges

Charged with false pretenses, Arthur Below, 35 years old, of Boston, Mass., was arraigned in Police Court yesterday and held for grand jury action under $5,000 bail.

Below is alleged to have passed bad checks in Washington totaling $675, and recently was released from the jail at New Bedford, Mass., where he had done a 19-months' stretch. He was returned here upon completing that sentence. Police said yesterday that Below also is wanted by Baltimore authorities on a similar charge.

GIRL DIES, ONE HURT ON FIRST PLANE RIDE

TWO CRAFT MIX WINGS

Pearl Jabezynska, 18, of Buffalo, was injured internally and her leg and skull fractured. Emergency Hospital surgeons expect her to live only a short time.

The pilot, Arthur J. Devlin, of Kenmore, has not regained consciousness. The two girls were taking their first plane ride.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Six persons were injured, some of them critically, when two planes mixed wings during an exhibition at the Iowa State Fair this afternoon.

Leo Allen, pilot of one of the planes, was one of the most seriously injured. Physicians said they believed he received a fractured skull.

Allen and Cy Younglove were flying with a trio calling themselves the "Sons of Guns." They have been giving daily exhibitions before the grand stand at the fair. They started to make a turn, and in doing so mixed wings. Allen's plane falling near the aircraft tent, but Younglove righting his, circled the field in signal of safety and then flying to the municipal airport to land.

The second mishap of the afternoon occurred later in the day when the Curtiss-Wright "mystery ship" overturned while landing. LeRoy McGrady, the pilot, was bruised but not seriously injured. He was a companion of Allen and Younglove in their act at the fair.

Detective Wins Praise For Work in Robbery

Detective D. J. Murphy, of the Third Precinct, was commended yesterday by the District Commissioners for "the initiative, interest, observation and energy displayed by him in the investigation made in relation to the robbery of Gilbert Hyatt, jr.," a runner for the Mount Vernon Savings Bank, on August 1.

Pointing out that Murphy's work was "worthy of emulation on the part of every member of the Police Department," the Commissioners expressed their appreciation particularly of his work in arresting Paul Calvin Embrey as the leader of the party engaged in the crime, in which the bank messenger was relieved of a bag containing about $4,000 in cash, of which $589 in cash and a quantity of personal property bought with the loot was recovered.

Coast Guard Ordered To Search for Yacht

(Associated Press.)

Coast Guard headquarters yesterday ordered a search of the waters from Florida to New Jersey to learn the fate of Clifford Galloway, of Barnsville, Ohio, who sailed from Havana, Cuba, on August 14 for New York in a 34-foot yawl-rigged sailing yacht.

The Coast Guard is acting upon the solicitation of the young mariner's mother, Mrs. Ella L. Galloway, of Barnsville, who has become apprehensive in view of the high winds and seas which she fears might have harmed him.

Suit Asks $25,000 For Crush Injuries

Sadie Rosenberg, of 603 Kenyon street northwest, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court, seeking to recover $25,000 damages from the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and Isaac Sussel, of Baltimore, for injuries alleged to have been suffered in an automobile-street car accident.

The woman sets out that she was riding in a machine belonging to Sussel when at Georgia avenue and Florida avenue northwest the automobile and a trolley car collided. Negligence on part of both defendants is alleged. The accident occurred February 23, she states. Attorneys Lichtenberg & Lichtenberg appear for her.

HYDE PLANS SESSION FOR DROUGHT RELIEF

State Committee Chairmen to Be Called to Capital Soon, He Says.

BANKERS ARE PRAISED

(Associated Press.)

Chairmen of State drought committees will be called to Washington in the near future by Secretary Hyde, chairman of the national committee, to coordinate and expedite relief work.

The Secretary announced his intention of calling the leaders of relief work together in a telegram from Chicago yesterday. He is expected to return to Washington today.

In his telegram Mr. Hyde said banking representatives of the drought States had outlined a "helpful program" which not only pointed out the duty of local bankers and local people, but undertook to supplement their resources by the formation of agriculture credit corporations.

"Assures Ample Credit."

Formation of these corporations, which will serve as intermediaries between the farmers and the intermediate credit banks, he said, assured "ample credit for loans to farmers in drought-stricken areas." He added they would also be of continuing benefit in the future. Mr. Hyde said distress which could not be met by the combination of local banking facilities and intermediate credit banks would be "amply provided for by the Red Cross."

The Secretary, who left Wednesday afternoon for Chicago, telegraphed his office yesterday that a meeting of State chairmen would be called as soon as the local committees could familiarize themselves with conditions in their States.

The report of the bankers' committee Wednesday was said by the Secretary to outline a "helpful program."

Points Out People's Duty.

The banker members of the State committees, he said, "not only pointed out the duty of local bankers and local people generally but they undertook to supplement and augment their own resources by the formation of agriculture credit corporations in each State.

"These credit corporations," the telegram continued, "serve as intermediaries between credit base of communities and the liberal credit facilities of the Federal intermediate credit system.

"The combination of local banking facilities and Federal intermediate credit banks will meet much of the distress," he said.

"Such distress as can not be met in this way will be amply provided for by the Red Cross," he added.

Man Files Countersuit To Wife's Divorce Plea

Benjamin I. Lutz, of New York avenue northwest near First street, yesterday countered his wife's suit for limited divorce with a plea that he be awarded an absolute divorce.

According to Lutz, the wife, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Lutz, has been intimate with two men whom he names as co-respondents. He denies his wife's charges that he abandoned her, but alleges that he was compelled to leave her last November because of her associations with other men. He declares that his wife has used the family home on P street northwest near Second street for the entertainment of her men friends and as a scene of "wild" parties.

Man Sues for $25,000 For Loss of His Teeth

William C. Voorheese, of 1380 Seventh street northwest, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court, seeking to recover $25,000 damages for the loss of his front teeth. The suit is directed against Edward Markowitz, of 1327 Seventh street northwest, who is alleged to have been responsible for the loss during an argument.

Markowitz demanded a trial by jury when arraigned in Police Court Wednesday, and the suit followed. Attorneys Robert I. Miller and Cedric F. Johnson appear for the plaintiff.

ADDITIONAL CLAIM OF $100,000 FILED IN SCULPTOR SUIT

W. Clarke Noble Now Seeks $250,000 Damages From Mrs. Calhoun.

ACTION ORIGINALLY RULED FROM EQUITY

Defendant Caused Arrest of Artist, Wife and Trio on Blackmail Charge.

Carrying additional claims of $100,000, a breach of contract suit filed in equity some time ago against Mrs. Cornelia D. B. Calhoun was submitted to the District Supreme Court yesterday by Richard L. Merrick, attorney for W. Clark Noble, internationally known sculptor.

The suit was ruled out of Equity Court on the grounds of no jurisdiction. At that time $150,000 was asked for services and damages for breach of a contract growing out of Mrs. Calhoun's alleged agreement to compensate Mr. Noble for use of his scales and models in subscribing funds for a memorial to motherhood. The memorial was to have bee nerected by the Universal Alliance, of which the socially prominent Mrs. Calhoun was an officer.

The memorial was never erected, and Mr. Noble claims that he was never paid for his services and use of his models. Actual and punitive damages sought in the suit filed yesterday are valued at $250,000.

About a year ago Mrs. Calhoun had Mr. Noble, his wife and three others arrested for conspiracy to blackmail. James P. Bird, at that time attorney for Mr. Noble; Stephen A. Armstrong, business man, and Mrs. Anna M. Hillenbrand, a nurse, were arrested and charged with the sculptor. All five were indicted and released on bond, pending a trial scheduled for October or November.

In the declaration filed yesterday Mr. Noble says that despite the Universal Alliance's claim that no money was ever subscribed for the memorial, he has learned that a considerable amount was raised. He reiterates the charge that part of this money was used by Mrs. Calhoun and her husband, Capt. C. C. Calhoun, in the purchase of the Calhoun estate at Braemar Forest, Md.

The sculptor further alleges that he has never received compensation for use of his models and for 15 months' work in connection with the proposed memorial.

Attorney W. Gwynn Gardiner has been retained to represent the defendant.

At the same time he was held for grand jury action under $5,000 bond on a charge of larceny from the Government.

According to police, he stole many articles from employes of the building. The charge of larceny from the Government grew out of the theft of a clock from the desk of an Army officer, the police said. Investigation of other similar charges against the man are pending, police said.

LITERARY BURGLAR TAKES 50 VOLUMES OF GERMAN POETRY

Books by Lesser Authors Are Also Scorned by an Erudite Thief.

Exhibiting the same excellent taste that marked his recent depredations in several other Georgetown homes, Washington's elusive "literary thief" entered the Rudolph Leitner residence, at 3105 Thirty-sixth street northwest, Wednesday night and departed with more than 50 rare volumes of German poetry and prose.

Several weeks ago the same thief, police believe, took numerous volumes of Thackeray, Dickens, Kipling and Greek classics from the home of John M. Sternhagen, at 3328 O street northwest. Two other Georgetown homes reported similar robberies some weeks ago.

In all instances the thief neglected many valuable pieces of silverware and bric-a-brac. Books by lesser authors also were left by the discriminating "collector." Police have maintained a sharp watch on book stores, but so far none of the stolen volumes has been recovered.

Mr. Leitner and his family were away from home when the robbery occurred. Returning to the house yesterday morning, he found that the thief had entered through a window on the sleeping porch. Several cigarette butts in the library indicated that the marauder had spent some time in browsing through the hundreds of volumes.

The first depredations in old Georgetown homes occurred several weeks ago when three residences were entered during the absence of families for the summer, and a quantity of loot taken. Police found that in these and later forays the mauraulders had devoted unusual attention to the libraries and in several instances had packed choice volumes with the intention of returning to cart them away, but their plans were frustrated.

Surveys Are Made For New Parkway

Washington Memorial to Be Built With Aid of Neighbor States.

Surveys of land in Maryland and Virginia, on both sides of the Potomac River, are now being made by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission in preparation for construction of the George Washington Memorial Parkway as provided for in the Cramton bill.

At the same time negotiations are going forward for purchase of land in sections to be developed. The property, according to present plans, will be purchased by degrees as needed. Deals for the Maryland property will probably be closed first. It is possible that acquisition of the Virginia property will be delayed until the Virginia Legislature convenes. Members of the planning commission will endeavor to make arrangements for purchase of the Virginia property without formal sanction of the legislature, it was learned.

State contributions of from $3,000,000 to $6,000,000 are to be made from each State, and the Federal Government will match these appropriations. The parkway construction within District limits will be financed by a loan of $16,000,000 from the Government, to be repaid without interest. The Maryland donation has been virtually settled, but the Virginia contribution is still pending.

The summer closing was arranged by the department store division of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association.

Mrs. Philip Marcum Enjoins Divorce Suit

Temporary Alimony Is Given Wife of Special Aid to Mitchell.

Marital difficulties between Philip H. Marcum, a special assistant to Attorney General William D. Mitchell, and his wife, Mrs Marie S. Marcum, of the Burlington Hotel, took a new turn yesterday when the latter obtained a preliminary injunction restraining her husband from suing her for divorce in Cabell County, W. Va.

Mrs Marcum filed a suit for maintenance against Mr Marcum in September, 1929, and he immediately countered with a cross-bill asking for a limited divorce and dismissal of his wife's petition. Neither has been disposed of yet, but the court granted the wife temporary alimony of $100 a month.

Mrs. Marcum charged her husband with systematic nagging and desertion. He denied that he had deserted her and countered with a charge that she had been cruel to him, even to the extent of scratching him so as to leave scars. They were married November 21, 1914, at El Paso, Tex., at which time Mr. Marcum was a practicing attorney in that city.

In the petition for injunction, Mrs. Marcum states that she received intimation of the suit pending against her in West Virginia when a friend sent her a newspaper clipping showing that among divorce actions calendered for hearing September 3 was the case of Philip H. Marcum vs. Marie S. Marcum.

Underwood & Underwood.

MRS. PHILIP HENRY MARCUM

The woman declares that she and her husband have resided in Washington since 1919 and that their marital difficulties should be settled in this jurisdiction. Marcum in his answer to his wife's plea for maintenance and his own cross-bill gave his residence as Huntington, W. Va., explaining that he was a temporary resident of the District.

4,300 Children Get Vaccination Order

Pre-School Group Faces Necessity of Submission to Treatment.

Parents of the 4,300 or more children who will enter District schools for the first time on September 22 are advised by the Health Department to have vaccination of the youngsters performed immediately.

No child may enter the public schools in Washington without having been vaccinated, it is pointed out, and delay might mean that children would lose time by being vaccinated after school opens. Parents may have vaccinations performed by their own physicians, but must get certificates that the operation has been attended to.

For the benefit of those who care to avail themselves of the service, the Health Department maintains a vaccination clinic at 512 I street northwest, where children may be taken at 10 o'clock on Wednesday or Saturday mornings where vaccinations will be performed and certificates given by Health Department physicians.

There will be no definite interruption to traffic crossing the avenue, however, and this crossing will be allowed whenever a gap in the procession permits.

Definite instructions were issued to policemen along the route to be "patient, courteous and helpful." They were also told to keep spectators on the curb so far as possible. Special attention will be paid to keeping the view from the reviewing stand, which will be in front of the District building, free of obstructions.

Man Arraigned in Court Twice for Same Drunk

For the second time within 24 hours George White, 41 years old, of Four-and-a-half street southwest near B street, faced Judge Isaac R. Hitt in Police Court yesterday on an intoxication charge.

Judge Hitt immediately recognized the man and recalled that in taking his personal bond on Wednesday on a similar charge the defendant had promised to abstain. "How about this?" asked the judge. "Didn't you promise me Wednesday——?"

White attempted to protest, but made little progress, when Robert I. Miller, his attorney, intruded.

"Your honor," said the lawyer, "we admit that White was drunk yesterday when arrested. However, White was arrested a few minutes after he left the Police Court after facing you on the other intoxication charge. He was still under the influence of the other liquor when locked up, and we insist that it was the same drunk and that he can not be tried again for that same offense."

Judge Hitt deliberated for several seconds and then judicially decided to give the man another chance to carry out his promise to abstain.

News of Theft Saves Calf On Way to Butcher's Block

Of course, the calf, being a fatalist anyway, didn't care, but most calves would have raised a rumpus if the mean trick two played on the subject of this story had been done to them.

This calf, a fine, fat yearling, and one that was not destined to relieve the shortage in veal, was nibbling what few blades of grass he, or she, could find in the pastures of Albert Thompson, at Fairfax, Va.

The calf's arduous search for fodder was interrupted at this point by two young men with considerable inventive genius. They threw a rope about the animal's neck, and promptly led him, or her, from the pasture.

Down the road they went, the calf probably giving each succeeding pasture an interrogative scrutiny. Mile after mile they went, with no stops for lunch or rest. Down to the mart on C street, near Ninth, where deals a man, Walter Brown, the trio hiked and Mr. Calf was made the basis for much haggling.

Success ended the youth's efforts and they got a check for $11.70, which they cashed immediately at the Franklin National Bank, and none too soon, for word of the missing calf came here just after they had departed with their [illegible].

And now the calf is right disgruntled, for he may have to [illegible] all the way back to Fairfax, there to be known as the calf that actually "went for a ride" and walked home.
